TWO NATIONS
TAKE LEAD IN EUROPEAN AIDRUSSIANS INVITED IN
BY BRITAIN AND FRANCE

BY JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Paris, June 18 (AP)—Britain and France tonight gave the Soviet Union a one-week deadline in which to join them in sponsoring a unified European recovery plan or see the continent's reconstruction organized without the Russians.

Climaxing two days of consultations, Ernest Bevin, Britain's foreign secretary, and Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, proposed that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov meet them during the week beginning June 23 to discuss the plan of American aid proposed by U. S. Secretary of State Marshall.

Officially, both French and British representatives said that the possibility of a Russian refusal to attend had not even been considered by the two ministers. Privately, reliable sources said Britain and France were determined to go ahead on the Marshall program without the Soviets if Moscow's answer was in the negative or inconclusive.

Marshall Ideas Welcomed
In a joint statement on the work of their two-day meeting, Bidault and Bevin said they had welcomed "with the greatest satisfaction" the ideas for American aid to Europe expressed by Marshall in a June 5 address at Harvard university.

British sources said that aside from the urgency imposed by stringent economic conditions on the continent, the date of June 23 was selected because of the forthcoming meeting of the United Nations economic commission for Europe at Geneva, Switzerland, on July 5.

These informants said both Britain and France believe something definite should be started on Marshall's program before the economic commission meeting opens.

The French foreign office officially denied a statement made earlier in the day by French Information Minister Pierre Bourdieu that Britain and France already had agreed to convene a general European economic commission to implement the Marshall project.

Most observers concluded that Bourdieu had unwittingly embarrassed Bidault by quoting a report which the foreign minister considered highly confidential.

They contended that Bevin and Bidault had in fact reached such an agreement but had decided for reasons of international policy to withhold any announcement until Russia had been given a chance to associate herself with it.

Merger Of Housing
Agencies Fails To Get Vote In House

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The House voted today to kill President Truman's government reorganization plan number 3, to merge Federal Housing activities and make the National Housing Agency permanent.

Not a voice was raised in favor of the plan, submitted to Congress May 27. Both Senate and House must reject it within 60 days of that date or it becomes effective automatically. Now it is up to the Senate.

Earlier a Senate labor subcommittee approved, 3 to 2, another Truman reorganization plan. This would permanently transfer the United States Employment Service to the labor department.

NO WATER FOR PARSON—Mr. and Mrs. E. Fleming shut off connection to their well which for 29 years has furnished the Methodist parsonage in Rose City, Mich., with water. Rev. Cecil H. Scott, resident minister, recently started a state-wide scandal by charging in a letter to the governor that Rose City was immoral and that law enforcement was lax. In retaliation, townspeople are staging a heckling campaign against Scott. (NEA Telephoto)

Father Clubs Children
To Death, Then Shoots
At Meddling Neighbors

BY JAMES F. FOWLER

Miami, Fla., June 18 (AP)—A 59-year-old Greek restaurateur told police today he clubbed his two children to death last night with a baseball bat, cried himself to sleep over their bodies and this morning shot two neighbors who wanted to put his boy and girl in a home.

Detective Sergeant John L. Deas said Chris Russell, between 30 and 40, was the father of the children, who were named John and Mary.

The shooting of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Wolfe on a former "no good" wife, a "double-crossing bunch of neighbors" and a "meddlesome school teacher." The Wolfes were reported in critical condition at a hospital. They were to have appeared against Russell in juvenile court Friday on a complaint that he had cursed and abused his children and was not a fit father.

Deas said that Russell's wife, Betty, called him by telephone from New York late today. He said it was learned she was now living in Norway, Conn., and that she was not yet divorced as Russell had told police. She told Deas the divorce suit was filed Nov. 1 but that the final decree had not yet been issued.

Meanwhile, four warrants were filed by Deas against Russell, two charging murder in the first degree for the slaying of the children and two charging assault with intent to murder for the shooting of Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe. Deas said a preliminary hearing had been tentatively set for Monday morning.

Russell failed in an attempt to take his own life when he pointed a revolver at his temple and pulled the trigger on an empty chamber as detectives went to arrest him.

The detective said Russell told him this story:
"The juvenile officers were going to take my children and put them in a home. I knew that I would rather be dead than have them go."

"We talked it over last night. It was dark. The children agreed they wanted to die. They told me: 'Daddy, you have been double-crossed enough. They are going to take us away. We want to die. We don't want to leave you.'"

"After they went to sleep, I look for my gun but couldn't find it. Then I found Johnny's baseball bat."

"I picked it up and hit them. I hit Johnny first and then Peggy. They didn't move."

"Then I held their heads and kissed and hugged them. I sat down beside them and cried until I went to sleep."

"This morning I opened up my place. The Wolfes called me a 'dirty Greek' and said they would 'take care of me.' I ran after my gun and from the street shot into their place. I don't know what I hit."

"Then I tried to kill myself with the gun, but there were no more bullets. I don't want to live any more. I want to be buried with my children. Hang me right away. I'm better off dead."

Soap Powder And
Soap Prices Cut
By 3 Big Plants

New York, June 18 (AP)—Three major soap companies cut their prices of household soaps and soap powders today.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. reduced wholesale prices an average of 5 per cent with cuts on individual items ranging from 4 to 12 per cent; Procter & Gamble and Lever Bros. reductions averaged 5 per cent.

The reductions followed a decline of about 10 per cent in April. Spokesmen for the companies said they reflected further declines in prices of fats and oils.

CASH FAVORED ON TERMINAL
LEAVE BONDSVETERANS BENEFITS
MAY BE DENIED TO COMMUNISTS

Washington, June 18 (AP)—A prediction that Congress will vote at this session to permit veterans to cash their terminal leave bonds immediately was made today by Speaker Martin (R-Mass.).

Meanwhile, a House committee acted to deny Communists any veterans' benefits.

Martin told newsmen that Congress, using "savings" obtained through budget reductions, could permit payment of the leave bonds right away and thus reduce the national debt against which they are now charged. Treasury figures show that veterans now own $1,830,455,000 worth of the bonds.

Treasury Saves Money

He said the government would save money because the treasury can now borrow money at one and one-half per cent. But it is paying two and one-half per cent interest on the bonds, which do not mature and cannot be cashed for five years after date of issue.

A few hours earlier, the House veterans committee, in executive session and without advance notice, approved a bill to deny all veterans' benefits to (1) Communists, (2) those in sympathy with the party's aims, and (3) those owing allegiance to Russia. Rep. Crow (R-Pa.), a wartime colonel and author of the bill, said it would cover terminal leave.

ROYAL OAK HAS

Market Owner

Royal Oak, Mich., June 18 (AP)—A statewide police blockade was set up tonight for three youthful gunmen who stole $18,500 from the home of Isaac Klein, struck his 16-year-old daughter and fled in his car.

The trio forced its way into the back door of the residence and in a daring daylight robbery, jimmied open a second-floor safe containing $18,000 in cash and $500 in war bonds after Mrs. Klein told them she did not know the combination.

One of the gunmen struck Lila Klein, 16, over the head. She was given first aid at Royal Oak General hospital and returned home.

Mrs. Klein said the three men, all armed, wore white handkerchief masks. They took $7 from the purse of Mrs. Angelo Raitz, a relative of Mrs. Klein's, then fled after cutting telephone wires in the house.

The bandits escaped in Klein's car, which had been parked in the garage. State police said they had a report men were seen traveling west on Ten Mile Road at Southfield soon after the robbery.

Klein, who operates a grocery and meat market in Detroit, was not at home at the time.

Oil, Steel And Coal
Shortages Face U.S.

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The United States is facing shortages or possible shortages in three major commodities: oil, steel and coal.

The steel shortage is here now. And it is contributing to the oil shortage, according to Max W. Ball, director of the interior department's oil and gas division. A lack of steel is creating a pipeline and tank-car shortage.

Ball said automobile gasoline might start running short in August. By winter, he said, there may be a severe shortage of fuel oil, especially in the Midwest. The Navy announced today it is restricting some of its air operations because it doesn't have enough gasoline.

Meanwhile, the bureau of mines reported today that only a 33-day supply of soft coal was above the ground last May 1—just three days supply above the "serious" mark, and a drop of 11.6 per cent since April.

Although the coal shortage is not acute right now, it could become very acute if John L. Lewis' soft coal miners and the mine op-

High Waters Pound
At Oakville, Iowa;
Town Is Deserted

Oakville, Ia., June 18 (AP)—Flood-waters of the Iowa river pounded relentlessly at Oakville late today and evacuation of its 400 inhabitants and most of the army of workmen striving to repel the stream was speeded up.

The river's crest was expected to arrive by 1 a. m. Thursday (CDT).

All but nine families of residents had departed by mid-afternoon and they were ready to leave on short notice.

A flood-fighting army of troops, Coast Guardsmen and civilians numbering nearly 1,000 was reduced to 200 as water continued to rise over the one remaining road to dry land.

CHURCH LEADER
RAPES ROSE CITYPastor Decides To Stay; Gets Backing From Diocese Chief

Rose City, Mich., June 18 (AP)—The Rev. Cecil H. Scott, whose crusade against alleged liquor law violations in this community touched off a heated dispute, got new support today from a high-ranking official of his church.

Dr. Frank M. Field, superintendent of the Methodist Saginaw-Bay City diocese, followed the lead of Methodist Bishop Raymond J. Wade in expressing support for Rev. Scott.

The minister, meanwhile, today reaffirmed his intentions of retaining his Rose City pastorate despite efforts of some townspeople to persuade him to leave or to seek his removal.

Dr. Field arranged a meeting with the seven trustees and 15 stewards of Rev. Scott's church tonight to review the entire case. He explained in advance that he had received no official request from officials of Rev. Scott's church for transfer of the minister to another post.

Frank N. Benjamin, president of the church board of trustees, said today that four of the church's seven trustees met Tuesday night and agreed informally that "it would be best for the community" if Rev. Scott was transferred.

Benjamin pointed out that the meeting was attended by only four of the 22 who could vote to seek Scott's ouster. He said no formal meeting of the entire group was scheduled.

Dr. Field commenting on reports that the water supply at the minister's home had been cut off, said today:

"We feel that civil liberties have been crossed, that things are being done by the community that are not a credit to the community. It seems more like Russia to me."

LA GUARDIA IN HOSPITAL

New York, June 18 (AP)—Former Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia underwent an operation for chronic pancreatitis, a chronic inflammation of the pancreas, today in Mount Sinai hospital, and afterward his condition was described as satisfactory by his personal physician, Dr. George Baehr.

Although the coal shortage is not acute right now, it could become very acute if John L. Lewis' soft coal miners and the mine op-

Oakville itself still was dry, but Mayor O. D. Johnson expressed the fear of inundation from backwaters swirling through at least three breaks in the protecting dikes.

The levee breaks here and upstream at Wapello spread the Iowa's waters over large areas of rich farm land and left the town surrounded. Only one road out of town could handle traffic at noon and that was water-covered.

Meanwhile, the Midwest in general and particularly Iowa which has been flood-plagued for two weeks—was assured of some relief by official action in Washington. The Senate passed and sent to the White House a measure authorizing the army to use $15,000,000 of available funds for repair of levees and other protective works in the stricken Midwest area.

Additionally, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation declared Central and Southern Iowa a "disaster area," and announced its Chicago office would accept applications for disaster loans for reconstruction of private property damaged by the floods.

Army engineers estimated that approximately 150,000 acres of land stood under water and that several hundred thousand more were in danger of a like fate.

The Mississippi, which last week inundated 104,000 acres between Keokuk, Ia., and Cairo, Ill., appeared building itself up to another big overflow. The stage at Burlington, 25 miles downstream from Oakville, was 15.7 feet this morning, a 24-hour rise of a foot. A 17-foot crest was predicted there for tomorrow or Friday.

Further downstream the crest of the destructive Des Moines river, which twice in two weeks has caused millions in damage and driven thousands of persons from their homes, was pounding to a junction with the Mississippi at Keokuk, Ia.

BABY, 3, KILLED
BY STRANGLERProwler Tried To Choke
Her, Chicago Mother
Tells Police

Chicago, June 18 (AP)—A blonde, blue-eyed three year old boy was strangled in his crib early today and his mother told police the slaying was discovered after she was awakened by a prowler-who tried to choke her.

The mother, Mrs. Betty Barrows, 22, divorced from the boy's father and estranged from her second husband, reported her statements sobbingly during two hours of questioning under a lie detector.

Coroner A. L. Brodie said Dr. Victor Levine, his pathologist had determined the boy was garrotted with a rope. Earlier, Police Capt. Andrew Barry said a six and a half foot length of clothesline had been found in a drawer of a vanity in Mrs. Barrows' bedroom. The woman said she had never seen the rope before, Barry related, and stated it was not in the drawer the last time she remembered opening it, about a week ago.

Barry said he was told the death of the boy, Gerald Drazin, was discovered by his maternal grandparents, Roy and Rose Black, with whom Mrs. Barrows and her son were living.

They rushed into their daughter's bedroom when she screamed, he said, and found several buttons had been ripped from the top of her pajamas.

Then, arming themselves with a hammer and frying pan, they searched the apartment. When they returned to the bedroom, they found the boy face down in his crib and not breathing. Attempts to revive the child failed.

Ceylon To Be Next
British Dominion

London, June 18 (AP)—Ceylon, springboard island in the Bay of Bengal where Adm. Lord Mountbatten had his southeast Asia headquarters during the war, will be next to join the British family of dominions, the British government announced today.

The 25,332 square mile island just southeast of India has been upset for weeks by strikers seeking greater home rule for the 3,500,000 native Singhalese. The island is famous for its corpa and cocoa-nut oil exports, and has been ruled by the British since 1796.

SECURITY LEVY
FREEZE PASSEDHouse Votes To Hold Tax At One Percent For Two More Years

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The House voted unanimously today to hold the old age insurance tax at one per cent for two more years.

Rep. Reed (R-N.Y.) predicted it is "the last freeze" of present rates that Congress will approve. The measure will block a $2,000,000,000 annual increase in the social security levy beginning next January 1 if passed by the Senate and accepted by President Truman. But it provides increases beginning in 1950.

Without the freeze, the security levy would jump automatically from one per cent against employers' wages and employers' payroll to 2.5 per cent against each starting the first of next year.

The present one per cent rate collects about $1,500,000,000 annually and has accumulated $8,700,000,000 in the security trust fund.

The measure was presented after a ways and means subcommittee, of which Reed is chairman, examined the needs of the trust fund from which the government pays old age and survivors insurance.

The new legislation provides for an increase in the tax to 1.5 per cent against wages and payroll in 1950, and to two per cent in 1951 and thereafter. With the inclusion of this formula for future increases, the bill had the support of both Republicans and Democrats.

The measure also continues, to June 30, 1950, increases in federal contributions, to needy aged persons, the blind, and dependent children.

These increases were first provided in a bill passed by Congress last year. The maximum federal contribution for each needy case was raised from $20 a month to $25. States also contribute to these benefits.

Former Bank Teller
At Iron River Is Named Embezzler

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 18 (AP)—A warrant charging a former Iron River bank teller with embezzlement was authorized today by U. S. District Attorney John F. Deeb as the result of an FBI investigation.

The former teller, Mrs. Alfred Rizzardi, 24, of Caspian, had been a bank employee until her marriage last May 10, bank officials said.

Directors of the Miner State Bank yesterday revealed that a $7,200 shortage, extending over the last four years, had been reported in the investigation, but the loss was covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

UNION CHIEFS
URGE VETO OF
STRIKE CURBSWHITE HOUSE WILL GIVE DECISION TO CONGRESS FRIDAY

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Chairman Hartley (R-N.J.) called today for a House labor committee investigation for what he called a "distorted" analysis of the Hartley-Taft labor bill prepared by the National Labor Relations board.

Hartley said in a statement he has examined the analysis, apparently prepared for "a rather select and exclusive group in and out of Congress," and found "a striking resemblance" to one by Lee Pressman, CIO lawyer.

"I can hardly conceive," he said, "that a board which has made so distorted an analysis of this law could possibly administer it in an unbiased manner."

The bill is not a law yet. President Truman is studying it and on Friday he will announce to Congress whether he is signing it or vetoing it.

Messages Set Record
The White House has been swamped by nearly 700,000 messages about the bill, a "heavy majority" of them urging a veto, according to Assistant Press Secretary Eben Ayers.

Ayers said it is easily the greatest flood of mail President Truman has received since he entered the White House more than two years ago.

Hartley said he is anxious to find out if the NLRB analysis "has been deliberately used to foment opposition to the bill throughout the country."

The President told reporters yesterday that "I haven't made up my mind."

Nevertheless, Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich.) said: "I know there is going to be a veto."

Most legislators agree that there are enough votes in the House to override a veto but some are not so sure about the Senate. The bill passed the House by 4 to 1 and the Senate by 3 to 1.

While the Senate margin was far more than the two thirds vote it would take to override a veto, some senators believe that an increased attendance plus some changed votes by Democrats who

Keyes On Program
With Sally Rand,
Tells Of Troubles

Lansing, June 18 (AP)—Referring to his speech as a talk about the trials and tribulations of a lieutenant governor, Lieutenant Governor Eugene C. Keyes yesterday shared a service club billing with Bubble Dancer Sally Rand.

Miss Rand, who coyly admitted she was "usually seen not heard," gave a scholarly lecture on citizenship and the theater.

Keyes followed after a graceful bow to Miss Rand.

"You want to do a first class job," he said, "but when you're never even invited to the front (the governor's) office it sort of hurts. The lieutenant governor could be a good contact man with the state administrative board. He also could serve as a liaison man between the board and the legislature."

"Vern Brown and Harry Kelly made an excellent team," said Keyes, who has been feuding with Governor Sigler, "I had hoped it would continue that way."

Vernal Olson, 17, Saws Way Out Of County Jail

By sawing through two iron bars in his cell door and squeezing through the 17-inch opening, Vernal Olson, 17, Escanaba's "one boy crime wave," escaped from the Delta county jail early yesterday morning.

Olson was held in default of $5,000 bond on eight breaking and entering and car theft charges. He would have been arraigned July 7 in circuit court. On July 10 last year he was sentenced in circuit court to two years probation for breaking and entering.

Undersheriff John Frederickson, who was on duty at the time Olson made his escape, said the escape must have occurred between 2 and 5 a. m. Between those hours the undersheriff said that he was dozing at intervals in a chair in the sheriff's office, separated from the main office and about 30 feet from the front door.

Olson's escape was discovered at 6:15 a. m. by the undersheriff when he went to inspect the second floor cell block.

Used Hack Saw Blade
Two bars in a lower section of the cell in which Olson was confined alone had been severed at the bottom with a hacksaw blade. The upper part of one bar had been partly sawed through and then broken off, and the second bar had been bent to one side. After squeezing through the narrow opening Olson had made his way downstairs and then out the front door of the sheriff's office.

Sheriff's officers were at a loss to explain how Olson had obtained the hacksaw blade. They said he had no visitors since he was brought to jail May 16 after his arrest in Cleveland, Ohio. Two "trusties" at the jail yesterday were back in cells.

Olson was described as six feet tall, weight 165, medium build. He has dark wavy hair, thick lips, and brown eyes. At the time of his escape he was wearing a short tan shirt and blue overall pants.

Law officers in the Upper Peninsula were notified of Olson's escape and an intensive search was conducted in this area by sheriff's officers, state police, and city police of Escanaba and Gladstone.

First Attempt Failed
Yesterday officers revealed that about 10 days ago Olson had made an unsuccessful effort to escape by removing bricks from a partition separating a hall way and the downstairs cell block. This was discovered and he was placed alone in a cell on the second floor of the jail.

Olson was born in Escanaba and earlier this year was employed on a Great Lakes freighter after a winter spent here in which he has confessed to participating in breaking and entering three drug stores and sports shop, and stealing four automobiles. His father is employed as a woodworker near Ralph.

On May 23 Olson was arraigned in justice court on the eight separate charges and waived examination and was bound over to circuit court for trial. Prior to arraignment he confessed breaking and entering Goodman's Drug store, Kessler's Sports shop, Peoples Drug store, and the Wahl Drug store; and to unlawfully driving away cars owned by James E. Smith, Francis Breault and Leo King of Escanaba, and Edward Perron of Escanaba Rt. 1.

In the Kessler and Wahl Drug store thefts his accomplice was George Shields, 23, of St. Jacques, who is held for circuit court. On July 10, 1946, Olson was placed on probation for two years for breaking and entering the Breitenbach store.

NEW BEACH IS 5 YEARS AWAY

Big Job Ahead For City Sandsucker; Vast Fill Needed

The city's sandsucker began operations yesterday at Sand Point where the crew will work about a week to ten days before shifting to the city beach project.

Considerable sand fill is necessary at Sand Point to bring the area to proper grade before the gun club installations are completed.

The municipal beach project will require at least three more summers of sandsucker operations before the tremendous fill required in that area is completed. Even after this job is finished, it will take at least two additional years of wave action to make the new swimming area entirely safe.

During that five year period the city beach will be maintained at the north shore.

The trees from which chicle for chewing gum is obtained must be 70 years old before they are tapped and then can be tapped only every six or eight years, yielding material for about two and one half pounds of gum at every tapping.

KNOX TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

Sault Man Visits Here On Pre-Primary Tour

Victor A. Knox of Sault Ste. Marie, speaker of the House of Representatives in the Michigan legislature and a candidate for Congress from the 11th district, visited Escanaba yesterday and met the Republican party members at an informal reception.

Knox is seeking the office vacated by the death of Rep. Fred Bradley. Governor Sigler has set the primary election for July 29 and the final election to fill the vacancy on Aug. 26.

Knox was met upon his arrival here by Rep. Roy Jensen, Escanaba.

Knox was born in Soo township five miles south of Sault Ste. Marie on January 13, 1899. He attended Chippewa county public schools and finished his education with a correspondence course in business administration.

He was first elected to public office in 1925 when he was named treasurer of Soo township. In 1927 he was elected supervisor and served eight years, including several as chairman of the board. He was elected to the legislature from Chippewa county in 1937, the lone Republican from the Upper Peninsula in that election, and was reelected each succeeding term.

He owned and operated two farms in Chippewa county until 1943 when he sold them and became the manager of the Chippewa County Co-op. He resigned that position in November, 1946, to enter the farm machinery business.

Knox is married and has a son, William, who is associate editor of Hoard's Dairyman.

VA Advises Vets On Armed Forces Study

Any correspondence or self-teaching courses which veterans may have taken while in the armed forces through the U. S. Armed Forces Institute or University Extension Correspondence Courses, or courses taken under the Army Education Program, do not reduce in any way the amount of education to which they may be entitled under the G. I. Bill.

Officials at the Veterans Administration branch office in Columbus, O., said that such courses undoubtedly earned veterans definite credits which may be applied to any courses they may take as veterans under the G. I. Bill.

BLISTER RUST FIGHT IS ON

U. S. Agriculture Men Strive To Protect U. P. Forests

The program to eradicate blister rust, a plant disease caused by parasitic fungus growth within the bark of white pine and in leaf tissues of currant and gooseberry bushes, is well underway in the Upper Peninsula, it was announced yesterday by officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Escanaba.

The department is cooperating with the U. S. Forest Service and the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine in keeping the disease under control in the U. P. "The disease attacks only those pines which have needles in appearance in the form of 'flags' on trees, which are dead limbs killed by blister rust," it was explained. "It works down the larger branches and finally reaches the trunk, which it girdles, killing the tree."

"Fortunately blister rust cannot spread from one pine to another without first going through currant or gooseberry leaves," officials said. "Therefore it has been demonstrated that if all such plants are removed, the disease can be controlled. The nature of the fungus requires two alternate hosts in order to flourish, and spends part of its life cycle on the leaves of currants and gooseberries before attacking the pine. It is transmitted by means of minute seed-like structures called spores, which are blown about by the wind. The spores appear on currant leaves during the summer and are readily distinguished by brown hair-like growths on the under side of the leaf."

The eradication of currants and gooseberries is being carried on in the Ottawa, Marquette, and Hiawatha National Forests this summer and also in Dickinson, Menominee and Marquette counties. Some of our most popular scenic spots in the Upper Peninsula have valuable pine which will be protected from blister rust this season.

A few of these beauty spots are Pictured Rocks at Munising, The Boy Scout Memorial in Marquette county and the Pine Mountain Ski Jump at Iron Mountain. It was pointed out that Upper Michigan is becoming a more popular vacation spot every year and that everything possible should be done to protect our forests and parks.

Program for Germany

WALTER HARNISCHFEGGER, president of the Milwaukee industrial corporation that recently established a branch factory in Escanaba, returned from a six-weeks trip of Europe Monday with a report of chaotic conditions in Germany and a 14-point program to avert economic disaster in Germany and the European continent.

Harnischfeger's view that the resuscitation of Germany is imperative for the economic salvation of Europe is generously shared in this country and abroad. It is a view that in the main coincides with the official American position, although there is disagreement concerning how this objective may be best attained.

The Milwaukee industrialist contends that the unification of the various occupation zones of Germany is of utmost importance and he proposes that this be accomplished by insisting that Russia get back within her own borders so that the all-essential food producing areas of eastern Germany be restored to the German economy. The unification of the German zones is a goal of the American and British governments, but every proposal to that effect has been snubbed by the Russians. Incidence alone apparently is not enough. The Russians are not at all interested in the unification of the German zones, nor for that matter in the rebuilding of the German economy. They are interested primarily in the spread of Communism for which German discord is the most fertile field.

Mr. Harnischfeger's 14 point program for the rebuilding of Germany covers a broad field. Undoubtedly it is a sound program which if put into effect would solve the difficult postwar problems of western Europe. The way the situation stands now, however, such a program designed to bolster Germany and strengthen democracy in Europe is effectively blocked by Russian influences. All efforts to settle the problems of unification, currency stabilization, solution of the displaced persons problem, reparations, industrial restoration and other postwar problems in Germany and Europe have been blocked by Russia, whose aims and objectives are directly opposite to our own.

Wide Open Race

GOVERNOR SIGLER has set Tuesday, Aug. 26 for the special congressional election in the 11th district to fill the vacancy created by the death of Rep. Fred Bradley of Rogers City. The primary election at which the various parties will select their nominees will be held Tuesday, July 29.

The withdrawal of Mrs. Marie Bradley, widow of the late congressman, from the list of prospective candidates signals a wide open race for the position.

The decision of Gov. Sigler to call a special election to fill the vacancy means that the district, one of the largest in the state, will not be without representation in congress for an extended period of time.

Negaunee Accepts Challenge

IT IS refreshing to note that the Negaunee recreation committee has decided to go forward with its plans to conduct the Upper Peninsula all-star football game again this summer, accepting the challenge of the Michigan High School Athletic Association which attempted to outlaw the all-star game.

It is the general belief of a majority of Upper Peninsula sports fans that the MHSAA has grossly overstepped its authority in its endeavors to kill the all-star football game, which proved so popular in its inaugural last year. The 1946 game, incidentally, also was staged in defiance of the MHSAA, which later invoked new rules and authority which it actually does not possess in a new endeavor to prevent a restaging of the all-star game.

The MHSAA threatened expulsion from its membership any school or school official participating in the all-star game. Negaunee met that challenge courageously in its decision to go ahead with plans for the all-star game after City Attorney Michael DeFanti told the committee, "It is ridiculous and preposterous that a school cannot use its own field and athletic equipment for any reasonable use that it desires." The common sense of this statement is so obvious that it hardly needs further clarification.

The MHSAA is an organization under state sponsorship that regulates high school athletics. Within its field it has done an excellent job. It has raised the standards of interscholastic athletics. It has promoted a greater degree of athletic safety and it has provided an insurance system to protect high schools and high school athletes against financial loss as a result of athletic injuries.

We believe the MHSAA has a perfect right to take a negative viewpoint on the all-star football game if it prefers to do so, although we frankly confess that the arguments presented by the MHSAA for opposing the game fail to impress us.

However, when the high school association ruled that Upper Peninsula coaches who participated in the game would be barred from their school jobs and that high schools that provided facilities for staging the all-star game would be subject to MHSAA suspension, the association obviously went beyond the bounds of the purposes for which the MHSAA exists.

It would be just as silly for the MHSAA to tell coaches that they cannot play golf in the summer time.

We still are at a loss to understand why Upper Peninsula coaches, the majority of whom we know are in sympathy with the all star game, have failed to protest this gross invasion of their personal rights. If the MHSAA can prohibit U. P. coaches from participating in the all star football game in the summer months, the MHSAA obviously can draft further restrictive rules governing the off-season activities of coaches.

Comdr. Little Acquitted

L. T. COMDR. Edward M. Little, accused of mistreating fellow Americans in a Japanese prison camp, has been acquitted of the charges by a Navy court martial.

Whether the cause of justice has been served by the acquittal is open to question, but the fact that the court martial was conducted in secret is certainly lamentable.

Public knowledge of the court martial did not develop until the trial had been in progress for at least two months. The case was an extremely important one because it involved the relationship of a Naval officer with enlisted men, mainly of the U. S. Army, under his command at a Japanese prison camp. Two of those men were delivered to the Japanese and brutally killed.

The court martial might better have been conducted publicly so that all of the facts involved in this important case might have become available to the general public. The public then would be in a position to determine whether the court martial was a "whitewash" or an honest effort to serve the cause of justice. There is too much suspicion now that our Army and Navy court martials are geared to favor officers at the expense of the enlisted men, a suspicion that is intensified by the method in which the Little court martial was conducted.

ELWYN AND SCHOOLS (Sault Ste. Marie News)

Some may have developed a huff that Supt. Foss Edwyn interlarded commencement exercises with a plaintive criticism of the citizens' indifference to these conditions.

So a shock was needed and the best time to administer a jolt is when the recipient least expects it. That time was commencement night.

Elwyn is absolutely right. The school situation on a local level definitely is worsening despite the tax diversion amendment which was supposed to have made the path rosy for school administrators. We are no nearer new school buildings which we need badly; the teaching situation amounts to a crisis.

Persons loath to commit their minds to the burden of further problems may ask "What has that to do with us?" and that's the crux of the trouble. It has everything to do with us. It is not enough that we furnish the money, when we do that.

In addition to furnishing the money for operation of schools we must do this: Produce the teachers. How? That's almost beside the point. In the old days citizens regarded their schools finding teachers was important in their lives. Teachers had to deal with fresh and developing minds for a fresh and developing generation.

Naturally we won't solve the teaching problem if we shrug it off with the sour comment that we have furnished the money, a school board and a superintendent and "let them do the rest." That amounts to a jellyfish attitude, washing the hands of a problem.

We could solve the problem, if we wanted to. We don't solve it because we don't want to be bothered. Is it because our children aren't worth it?

When a man is as close to the problem as Elwyn is, and when his heart is in it as Elwyn's heart is, and when he sees what it's all leading us to, he can be pardoned for speaking up in commencement exercises.

After all Elwyn and all of us want to keep on having commencement exercises.

Don't let home gardening get you down—except on your knees with a trowel.

Take My Word For It

Frank Colby

A POINT OF USAGE

(Scrapbook Item)

Milwaukee: Our English teacher has told us that the word raise is never correct as a noun, as in "... give the teachers a raise." Most of us do not agree. What is your opinion?—English Class.

Answer: I feel that what your teacher meant to say is that raise as a noun is colloquial, and should not be used in formal speech or writing.

Most dictionaries list raise (an increase in salary) as colloquial. But it has become so well established that we must admit it to good usage.

Grammarians have objected to such constructions as "give the teachers a raise" on the ground that raise is a transitive verb and must take an object, i.e., one must raise something—vegetables, cattle, flags, Cain, the roof. They argue that one may properly raise a salary, or raise (increase) wages. But the increase, they state, should be called a "rise," as, "give the teachers a rise."

Rise, in that sense, is heard in British

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The political clamor following on President Truman's veto of the Republican tax bill is likely to obscure one of the most telling points he made. In the last paragraph of his veto message, he called for a program of tax adjustments and tax reduction "geared to the financial and economic needs of this country."

That kind of program is long overdue. The late President Roosevelt talked about it often but he never got around to it.

Evidence is growing that some Republicans have a tax program they intend to try to put over next year. It is also evident that they want to try to shift as much of the tax burden as possible from income tax to the excise or sales tax. In other words, they would shift to the kind of tax that penalizes the low-income groups.

—KNUTSON CRITICIZED—
A tax program must originate with the House Ways and Means committee. The other day, Chairman Harold Knutson of that committee named a group of outsiders to help draft a tax plan for 1948. He named them without consulting the full committee and there were prompt cries of dictatorship.

The key men on that committee long have lobbied to reduce income taxes in the higher brackets. In some instances they have openly advocated a federal sales tax.

The chairman and prime mover of the special "Tax Study Committee" is Roswell Magill, member of one of New York's largest corporation law firms and a professor of law at Columbia university. One of the most influential members is John W. Hanes, who represents large corporate interests in New York, including the Hearst properties. Hanes was one of the two private citizens permitted by the Republican majority to testify before the Ways and Means committee on the tax bill just vetoed.

Another member is Cheever Cowdin, motion-picture executive who has frequently been a spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers on taxes and finance. Still another member is Carson S. Duncan, economist of the Association of American Railroads.

Knutson's effort to make this appear a "Bi-Partisan" committee is plain foolish. While there is some window-dressing—members who theoretically represent farm and labor—the key men will speak from the special point of view of great wealth.

—SALES TAX SEEN—

An editorial in the New York Journal of Commerce made clear what the Wall Street community thought of the Magill group. The editorial had the headline: "Magill appointment underscores trend toward sales tax." Magill, said the editorial, will play a "key role" in formulating a new tax program.

Rep. Aime J. Forand of Rhode Island, one of the Democrats who challenged Knutson's right to name these outsiders and give them special powers, pointed out a deadly parallel. It is a parallel which should make the Republican leadership stop, look and listen.

In 1930, Herbert Hoover was in the White House. Republicans controlled both senate and house. While the stock market crash of 1929 had jarred confidence, the philosophy of high and unending prosperity was still in the ascendant.

In that fateful year, the Republicans in the house invited business men to come in and write a tariff law. They brought into the committee room high priests of high protection—such men as Joseph Grundy of Pennsylvania—and they told them to write their own ticket.

The result was the Smoot-Hawley high-tariff law. Mr. Hoover himself protested. A thousand experts in economics and political science signed an earnest plea to prevent adoption of the law. They knew that it would hasten the tide of depression all over the world.

A tax program that transfers even part of the burden to the low-income groups will take dollars out of the pocket of the average consumer that he otherwise would spend for the products of our factories and farms. It means we shall be less able to buy those products. It means depression.

There should be changes in our antiquated tax structure. The committee for economic development pointed the other day to the need to give small businesses a chance to invest a larger share of their earnings. These and other changes are long overdue. But if they come as merely part of a plan to switch the load to the small wage earner, then we shall be asking for boom and bust in the good old pattern of 1929 and after.

usage; but it seldom if ever is heard in America.

Now the more conservative among my readers may already be reaching for pen and paper to protest for pen and paper to protest my "willingness to cheapen and corrupt our mother tongue." But I must remind them that rules of language are not made or unmade by columnists, grammarians, professors, or dictionaries. Their function is to report and not to dictate what shall or shall not be said.

Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition, does not list the noun raise (an increase in salary or wages) as a colloquialism. The noun is given complete sanction as good American usage. Indeed, Webster's quotes thus from the works of Christopher Morley in giving an example of the proper use of raise as a noun: "He offered to give Fuji a raise, but the butler was still determined to leave." (See raise, noun, page 2056.) Thorndike's Century also accepts the noun raise as correct.

And why not? If the nation as a whole finds the noun raise an acceptable and convenient word, its elevation to correct usage could not be stopped by all the grammarians in Christendom. The American language is like that.

Severing the Last Tie

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler—

NOT SO BAD—While there have been many complaints about the kind of weather the Upper Peninsula has been subjected to this spring, Uno Anderson, Cornell farmer, thinks it could be worse. He thinks so because he has recently seen what the farmers in southern Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana are undergoing this year—floods!

Returning from a visit with relatives in Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and their children saw fields flooded to a depth of many feet, croplands inundated, and water crowding high roadside embankments. By comparison the conditions in this area are good, he said.

"My sweet corn and fodder corn is coming up and I cultivated it for the first time the other day," Anderson reported. He isn't a "potato farmer," goes in more for grains and hay and cattle.

MORE ABOUT SNAKES—Clemens Pamperin, writing from Wheat Ridge, Colorado, says that the column of June 4 "on snakes" struck his fancy. Clemens is the son of Louis J. Pamperin of Perkins, is now "out west" after attending Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette.

"I have heard that a rattlesnake ever killed in Delta county—was killed on my father's farm at Perkins. We've lived there 11 years, but this was many years ago, before we came to Perkins. Perhaps Mr. Chriske (John Chriske, district conservation supervisor) could inquire of some of the old residents of that territory to verify or disprove this report. Or perhaps you could do so through your column."

We will accept the last suggestion, and will herewith ask Perkins folks to inform us whether there was once a rattlesnake killed on the Pamperin farm "many years ago."

THE CLICKETY KIND—And Mrs. Estella Bergeson of Ensign writes to tell us of a snake she heard but did not see.

"A few years ago I used to go to help out a neighbor, and would be coming home at 8 o'clock at night. One evening I heard a sound like this: click-click-click-click. It is like the sound a mowing machine makes when drawn along out of gear only the snake got in an extra clickety."

"I could not see the snake for it kept in the grass by the fence. It followed from behind me to the Sexton place and when I got home I could hear it clicking out by an apple tree and then go away into the Bailey woods. Some boys playing in the woods heard the dog barking at something by the brook. They looked and saw a snake trying to bury itself in the mud."

"The boys ran home, but one of them, Glen Hazen, who owned the dog, came and told me about it. He could see only about half of it and said it seemed to be about two inches in diameter in the largest place and with only about two feet of length showing. He said it was colored like a pine snake and was clicking when he saw it. I have seen quite a few pine snakes, but never one with a click."

"The story got around and back to me in a few days. One of my neighbors told me the snake was Forty miles an hour is not considered a reckless speed in this day of fast moving motorized vehicles, but when two stock automobiles collide head-on each running at that speed, the resultant crash is vicious enough to shatter the nerve of hardened thrill seekers. Lucky Teter and His Hell Drivers will present such a collision directly in front of the grandstand of the U. P. State Fair grounds on Sunday afternoon.

Lansing—A liquor bill which would move state revenues sharply upward and permit the return of saloon bars was adopted by the senate today by a vote of 19 to 9.

Lansing—Attempts to amend the state service bill failed in the house of representatives today, and it advanced to position for a final vote, possibly tomorrow.

The annual Escanaba high school senior banquet, attended by members of the class of 1937 and their patrons and patronesses, was held last night in the social rooms of Bethany Lutheran church.

Twenty Years Ago

New York—Unfavorable weather caused Richard E. Byrd to postpone his trans-Atlantic flight today until at least Sunday night.

Suresnes, France—Marble crosses are rising to mark permanently the resting places of 30,000 American soldiers buried in France. General Pershing was present when the first cross was placed over the grave of Hugh W. Pruett of Texas, a private in the infantry.

Escanaba lovers of music will be given an opportunity to hear the finest in instrumental chamber music next Thursday evening, June 23, when the Augustana concert trio of Rock Island, Ill., assisted by Carl Nelson, well-known basso, will appear at the Swedish Luth. Bethany church under the auspices of the Luther League.

Iron River—Stirred with enthusiasm over the approaching convention to which it will play host, the Iron River post of the American Legion last night finished off plans for a three-day demonstration unprecedented in U. P. Legion circles.

"as big as a post and thirty feet long!"

GOOD AS ANY—Wayne J. Sheldon of Lansing, and tour manager for the recent air caravan that brought 23 planes and over 50 air tourists to Escanaba, was disappointed. He was disappointed because bad weather made it impossible to complete the tour. They arrived in Escanaba Thursday, stayed one night at Washington Island, and the following nights here.

"But since it couldn't be helped, we did enjoy our long stop in Escanaba," Sheldon said. "When you're grounded you might as well relax and enjoy it."

THE EARLY BIRDS CLUB—There is in Michigan an Early Birds Club. It is composed of men who have been flying airplanes since Dec. 17, 1916, and no else is eligible. There are five members in the club, and two of them were in Escanaba with the air tour last week.

They were Walter J. Carr of Lansing, who has been flying for 33 years, and C. R. Sinclair of Muckego, who has been flying for 32 years.

We visited for a few minutes with "Sinclair," who operates a flying service, and he reminisced briefly about his early days in the air when he used to make exhibition flights back in

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—There is one thing genial, Big Jim Farley forgot to mention in his illuminating Collier's confessions on how he broke with Franklin Roosevelt—namely Mrs. Farley.

Bess Farley is a subject dear to Jim's heart and one which he doesn't like to talk about where the Roosevelts are concerned. But to those who watched Jim during the years he was in the New Deal, it is inescapable that Bess played a major role in his gradual drift away from "The Boss."

Washington and never hesitated to say so. She also disliked the Roosevelts, and was almost as indiscreet in her remarks about them as she was about Washington.

She refused to live in the nation's capital, in fact was the only cabinet wife who did not take her place here beside her husband. This forced Jim to be a commuter. At first he spent about five days a week in Washington, with two days in New York. Then he gradually drifted into spending about two days in Washington, sometimes less.

True, New York politics was important. Also Jim toured the country a great deal. But the job of running a giant organization such as the post office department, plus the Democratic National committee, plus being an adviser to the president ordinarily requires 7-days-a-week concentration.

And it frequently happened that when FDR called intimate conferences, Jim Farley just wasn't around. He was up in New York with his family.

More important than this, however, in the final Farley-Roosevelt break was the constant poison which Mrs. Farley poured into Jim's heart, plus the fact that FDR couldn't help but know about this poison.

Once when the Farleys were walking down 5th Avenue in New York, Bess pointed to a big, shiny black limousine. "Look at that!" she said. "That's the kind of a car I would be riding in if you weren't working for that ingrate. Instead, I'm walking!"

Obviously, Jim couldn't maintain two establishments in New York and Washington on a cabinet officer's meagre salary; and the more he went into debt, the more Bess Farley demanded that he leave Roosevelt. She kept harping home the idea that Jim had made Roosevelt, that if it hadn't been for Jim there wouldn't be any Roosevelt, and that it was time Jim got away and let Roosevelt collapse.

So, afterwards, Jim Farley really got to believe that all this was true. That was one of the most important factors in the break between the two once great friends.

NOTE—Though Farley complained that he was not invited to the White House socially, the real fact was that Mrs. Farley was seldom in Washington. In addition, the Roosevelts knew all too well how Bess felt toward the President, and social gatherings under such circumstances don't flourish.

—FASCIST REPORT SUPPRESSED—
Today the House Administration committee will decide whether it is sufficiently interested in opposing fascism to report to the full house of representatives a recommendation to print a library of congress study of "Fascism in Action." So far the report has been blocked in committee.

Last year a report on "Communism in Action" was printed immediately. And, despite GOP economy talk, 48,000 copies were sent by GOP leaders to members of the senate—and not at the senators' request.

In contrast, some Republican members of the administration committee oppose printing the report on Fascism on the grounds of economy.

However, at least three Republicans are anxious to vote for printing the exposure of Fascism: Robert Corbett of Pennsylvania, Walter Riehlman of New York, and J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware.

On the other hand, at least two Democrats seem to feel that the book insults good Americans by identifying Fascism with race prejudice and the lawlessness of the Ku Klux Klan. They are: Toby Morris of Lawton, Okla., and John Bell Williams of Raymond, Miss. Twenty-eight-year-old Williams, incidentally, served as a pilot in the American army that fought Fascism—though he doesn't seem too sure Fascism should be fought here at home.

—INSIDE LABOR BILL DEBATE—

Inside debate among the Truman cabinet regarding the Taft-Hartley labor bill started out with only two members vigorously opposed to the bill—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Secretary of Interior Krug. It ended with most of them opposed.

One of the things that convinced them was a 5-point memo circulated by Schwellenbach. Before he went to Canada, Truman had asked the cabinet to give him the benefit of their individual views in writing, and the methodical secretary of labor did a masterful job.

Another convincing factor was the testimony of Paul Herlog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, who in a small meeting of cabinet and labor advisers last week, demonstrated how the Taft-Hartley bill could throw industries into labor-relations chaos.

At this meeting, the only adviser present who registered indirect approval of the bill was Secretary of Commerce Harman, and he did so only by asking questions. He frankly admitted that he was under strong pressure from business interests to urge the President to sign the bill, though actually he seemed fairly neutral.

"Would be a swell idea if people had to take out a license to hunt trouble."

It's a heap better to be given a nasty look than to have one.

Too many people are in the dark about the bright side of life.

FARMERS DAY ON AUGUST 8

Annual Roundup To Be Held At Chatham
Station

Friday, August 8 has been set as the date for the annual Farmers' Day Roundup at the Chatham Experiment Station. The event has been held annually, except in 1942, for 27 years.

J. G. Wells, Jr., superintendent of the agricultural sub-station of Michigan State college, today issued an invitation to Upper Peninsula farmers and homemakers to set aside that date for attendance.

"Weather permitting, we should have some very informative experiments to show the farmers. Home makers have always found their part of the program educational," Wells remarked.

A general program similar to that held in recent years is being planned. Between 1,000 and 1,500 visitors are expected, the superintendent said.

With the aid of his assistants, conducted tours to dairy, garden, horticulture, crops, poultry and other projects will be carried out. Visitors are urged to bring picnic lunches and enjoy the cool shade of the orchard where tables will be available. Free coffee and milk will be provided, Wells said.

A limited number of meals will be available at Camp Shaw. A 4-H club group will operate a stand.

The program will open at 10 A. M. and there will be tours until late afternoon. A brief speaking program is being arranged for the hour following the lunch period.

Veteran Menominee Policeman Is Dead

Menominee, Mich.—Joseph Jossart, 63, of 1893 Stephenson avenue, a member of the Menominee police force for 36 years, died at 6 p. m. Monday in St. Joseph's hospital. Heart disease and diabetes caused death after nine months' illness.

Born in Marinette April 19, 1884, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jossart, he moved to Menominee with his parents when he was two years old and has lived here since.

Jossart joined the Menominee police force in 1911 as a patrolman and was promoted to the post of night desk sergeant, which he held for 25 years until illness forced him to retire several months ago. He was an ardent fan of many types of athletics and he welcomed night baseball which permitted him to listen to radio broadcasts during the night hours he was on duty. He could quote batting averages of major league stars from memory for years back.

Girl Embezzles $7,200 At Bank In Iron River

Iron River, Mich.—Directors of the Iron River State bank said Tuesday that Mrs. Alfred Rizzardi, 24, of Caspian, a recent bride, had confessed that she had embezzled $7,200 of bank funds over a period of more than four years to "entertain soldiers and sailors."

The federal bureau of investigation, which conducted an investigation with bank officers, obtained the confession from the young woman, formerly first teller at the bank. She was ordered to remain at her home until a warrant for her arrest was issued.

Her employment at the bank ended May 22 when she returned from a 12 day honeymoon. Edward J. Kreski, cashier, said Mrs. Rizzardi revealed in her confession that she had taken money from a number of small accounts and had "covered up" by making out two major withdrawals labeled "debit withdrawal slips."

During the four year period, officials said, she used her mother's saving account as a cushion for balancing accounts she had tapped. She said she had not taken more than $100 at a time and that for the most part she took the money in $5 and $10 dribbles.

Mrs. Rizzardi attributed her spending to entertaining soldiers and sailors during the war. She said she had many men friends in the service and that she generally paid the dinner and drink bills because "I felt sorry for them."

She also entertained the women of her bowling team and often furnished her car without asking them to help share the expense. She paid $800 for a used car in 1944 and paid another $800, she confessed, to have it repaired and buy five new tires to put it in running order.

She said she knew she was "doing wrong" but had intended to make restitution in full.

Radio In Review

By John Crosby

The Telephone Hour (N. B. C. 9 p. m. E. D. T. Mondays) is a very pleasant, high-minded, half hour (in radio there are only thirty minutes in an hour) which has drenched the air with good music for eight years. It's one of the most expensive musical shows on the air and its fans are legion and nationwide. It has a Hooper rating of around 8 which is peanuts by comparison with, say, Bob Hope but which indicates there are many millions of listeners for good music.

In case you never heard it, which is unlikely, this is a program of serious music played by The Bell Telephone Company symphony orchestra conducted by Donald Voorhees and sung by a chorus and some of the finest soloists in the country. Voorhees hasn't the purity of tone or the metal-like definition of say the Boston Symphony. By symphonic standards some of the conducting is a little messy, but it's good enough for all but the most severe musical tastes.

The phrase "classical music" has come to mean anything that wasn't written by Irving Berlin. Used in that loose and inaccurate sense, the Telephone Hour is a program of classical music. Its programs are cleanly balanced and are not too heavy and not too light. The program arrangers have much more closely to really great music than say "The Voice of Firestone" and at the same time, wisely I think, gear their selections to popular tastes too. The result is something between a pop concert and Carnegie Hall but closer to the latter than the former.

A typical recent program for instance opened with the thrilling psalmody from "Mefistofele" sung by Blanche Thebom, mezzo soprano, accompanied by the chorus and orchestra. Then Miss Thebom sang the opening and closing arias from Act II of "Die Walkure." After that the orchestra took over with the intermezzo from "Pagliacci," a melody which I imagine can be whistled by a good many schoolboys. Then Miss Thebom returned to sing Chopin's "Melancholy," the father of so many of our Tin Pan Alley tunes. After another orchestral number (Rimsky-Korsakoff's Dance of the Clowns), Miss Thebom, the chorus and orchestra all joined in a hymn. That's the sort of program which make a Mozart or Bach devotee distinctly restless but is immensely appealing to the rest of us.

The soloists who have appeared on this program in the last eight years are a "Who's Who" of music. The Telephone Company has consistently sought out the best; since there are so few who fall into that category and since the program is on the air week after week, occasionally they settle for the second best but rarely ever for anything less. Among those who have been heard or will be heard this year are Marian Anderson, Gladys Swarthout, Ezio Pinza, Maggie Teyte, Bidu Sayao, Arthur Rubinstein and Fritz Kreisler. What more can you ask?

Alcoholics Anonymous And Salvation Army Fight Rum

By JOSEPH FOSTER

Cleveland, O. (NEA)—Alcoholics Anonymous and the Salvation Army teamed up to form an exclusive club to help men find their way back from "Skid Row." The Yearling Club which started in Cleveland and Philadelphia and now has units in more than 15 eastern cities, is limited to ex-alcoholics. Membership is automatic and is granted as a "first birthday" celebration for former alcoholics who have completed their first full year of sobriety.

How the club operates is shown in the story of a 60-year-old man told at the "birthday party" marking his membership.

This man, a graduate of the University of California and Harvard Law School, had a law practice that brought him a palatial home and a 10,000-acre ranch. He never drank an alcoholic drink until he was 52.

In the eight years that followed, he once found himself pushing a mop in the alcoholic ward of a charity hospital. For a time, he was drinking a quart of whiskey a day and taking 20 grains of barbitol.

When somebody steered him to the Salvation Army men's home in Cleveland, he found a place he could live and work while getting moral aid from Alcoholics Anonymous.

These are the only A. A. units in which the members live together. The 80 men in the Cleveland home include college graduates, contractors, laborers, businessmen, white collar workers and professional men. While "in training," they repair and make furniture, run a sales store, collect and bale more than six million tons of paper each year, and do their own housekeeping.

"The men who come to us are down and out, beaten, despondent derelicts. They are hopeless men according to all modern sciences, but we have proved that this is not so," said Maj. Peter J. Hoffman, head of the men's home which joined with A. A. for the project.

Interested men come from jails, workhouses, flop houses, and other "skid row" areas.

They are given a paying job in the home, a bed, good meals, medical attention, recreation, and personal counseling. Each man is given a sponsor and takes a three month course in A. A. fundamentals. Each case is treated separately on its own merit.

Eventually, the "new" men leave the home, return to their families and old jobs. Some homeless men, because of their age, continue to live and work at the home.

No man is compelled to stay. But Major Hoffman's record shows that 75 per cent of those who go out within six weeks fail, while 90 per cent or more who stay three months make the grade.

"Our turnover is great—almost 300 a year," the major said. "And we even have to make reservations."

Then when a man is sober for a full year and still wishes to be

Festival Properties Committee To Meet

The properties committee for the Hiawathaland spectacle, George Embs, chairman, will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce office.

The other members of the committee are Janet Raymond, Jean Rosenquist, Mrs. Edith Rosenquist, Al Christensen, A. W. Erickson, Don Guindon, A. E. Hendrickson, John Novack, Gladwin Oberg and Robert Sattlem. All members of the committee are expected to be present.

30 Towns In U.P. Planning Surveys

Marquette — Industrial surveys of about 30 communities in the Upper Peninsula are expected to be completed, printed and ready for distribution by early October, Development Bureau officials said today.

The surveys are now in progress in 18 towns, of which about 12 are nearing completion. Initial steps are being taken by 12 others. When completed, the surveys will contain factual data needed by civic and municipal authorities endeavoring to evaluate industrial and resource facilities in their communities. Thus, they will furnish the type of information desired by industries seeking to decentralize.

"The Michigan State Planning Commission and the U. S. Department of Commerce have extended full cooperation to the Development Bureau and local survey committees, Bureau officials explained, "assuring that a creditable job will be done in each community when the surveys are completed."

Ben Clarke, field agent for the state planning commission, has been collaborating personally with local committees. Technically, his services will end June 30, when the Commission's life expires. However, the new Michigan Economic Authority when they take over on July 1 may make Clark's services available until the survey is completed.

State Aid Cut Off; Adult Education Is On Local Financing

Lansing—(AP)—With state aid cut off, most communities which conducted adult education plans with the help of state money will continue them with local financing.

This was revealed in surveys conducted by Don Phillips in charge of adult education at Michigan State College and made public at an adult education conference Tuesday.

The recent session of the state legislature did not renew funds appropriated for the past three years for experimental local adult education programs.

Directors of adult education programs in various Michigan cities were told that the survey showed a tremendous response to some and family living programs. The report cited adult education programs as helping to bring a closer cooperation between the school and the community.

Roy La Salle, Lansing adult education director, was re-elected president of the Michigan Adult Education and Robert Stuart of Bay City, secretary-treasurer.

Cap Pistols Under Ban In Michigan Until October 10

Lansing—(AP)—The executive office warned youngsters and their parents today that caps and cap pistols do not become legal in Michigan until October 10—and then only under safeguards.

The warning followed reports of police agencies that caps and cap guns are already on sale in many parts of the state.

In a statement, Governor Sigler said that certain provisions of the statute required the toy guns to be of a type approved by the state police and must be constructed so that the hand can not come in contact with the cap when it is in place.

Paper caps may not contain more than one-fourth of a grain of explosive.

The Black Market in Automobiles

According to recent news reports, the State of Michigan is to make an inquiry into the black market in automobiles. Having just returned from a trip to Detroit, I saw abundant proof of this black market in the used car lots. And I am wondering if the used car dealers are entirely to blame. Perhaps the manufacturers are as much to blame as anyone.

I have recently, for my own satisfaction, investigated the advertising of automobiles of several years past. Before the war the manufacturers of cars advertised their product for so many dollars F.O.B. Detroit or elsewhere. Recent advertisements do not give the list price. And the ordinary citizen begins to wonder why the manufacturers do not now list the price of their cars. Is it because they also are in league with the black marketers? Certainly one may be excused if one harbors this thought.

We have been told by high officials that the threat from Communism is a very real threat. Has it not occurred to the American industrialist and the American business man that they are creating more Communists by their greed and avarice than do the members of the Communist party by their work and propaganda. Not for long are the people going to permit themselves to be gouged of the last nickel and dollar which they possess, without taking retributive action.

HUGE WHEAT CROP IS SEEN

Abundant Yield Likely To Prevent Chaos In Europe

BY SIGRID ARNE
(P) Newsfeatures Writer
Washington—Happily for this country, as well as for the world, the American winter wheat crop is going to break all records this year. It will go over a billion bushels for the first time in history.

Furthermore, the Canadian crop looks good. It's too early to tell about Australia and Argentina, but Australia is planting 2,000,000 more acres this year. The crops in North Africa look good. India will increase its production by 39,000,000 bushels.

The result is that the world will eat.

European Failures
That could have been otherwise. The winter storms in Europe will likely reduce crops there. Only crops in Italy and the Danubian countries look normal. Cold and floods cut them in England, Spain, France, Portugal, Poland.

The bumper American-Canadian crops will be on hand to balance the Western European losses. Poor crops could have spelled such serious trouble that Washington economists throw up their hands at the thought. Short North American crops could have meant:

1. Prices could have jumped here. And wheat prices, like steel prices, are so important in setting the general American price level that high cost wheat could have sent such unrelated needs as autos and overcoats higher.

2. For some countries short wheat crops could have meant very slim eating or not eating at all, for some groups. That could have meant in today's vocabulary that might have meant a new westward surge of Communism.

Price May Fall
But the American wheat crops look so good that agricultural economists here expect the price to drop somewhat late this year. That can mean city people will pay a little less for bread and flour. And it can mean help on slowly easing the price of manufactured products downward.

The crop means that Americans can again get the 700,000,000 bushels they consumed last year. They'll have almost 450,000,000 bushels to ship abroad. This past year the United States beat all world shipping records by sending abroad 426,500,000 bushels of wheat.

For many parts of the world American wheat has meant the difference between life and death. Food is so short that many governments have placed all manner of restrictions on the use of food. Some 20 nations have reported on their food restrictions to the International Emergency Food Council here. The reports show:

Conservation Practiced
1. All nations which must import food are requiring wheat extraction rates of 85 per cent in milling both wheat and rye. In the Union of South Africa it is 96 per cent, and a person who wastes wheat there can be criminally prosecuted.

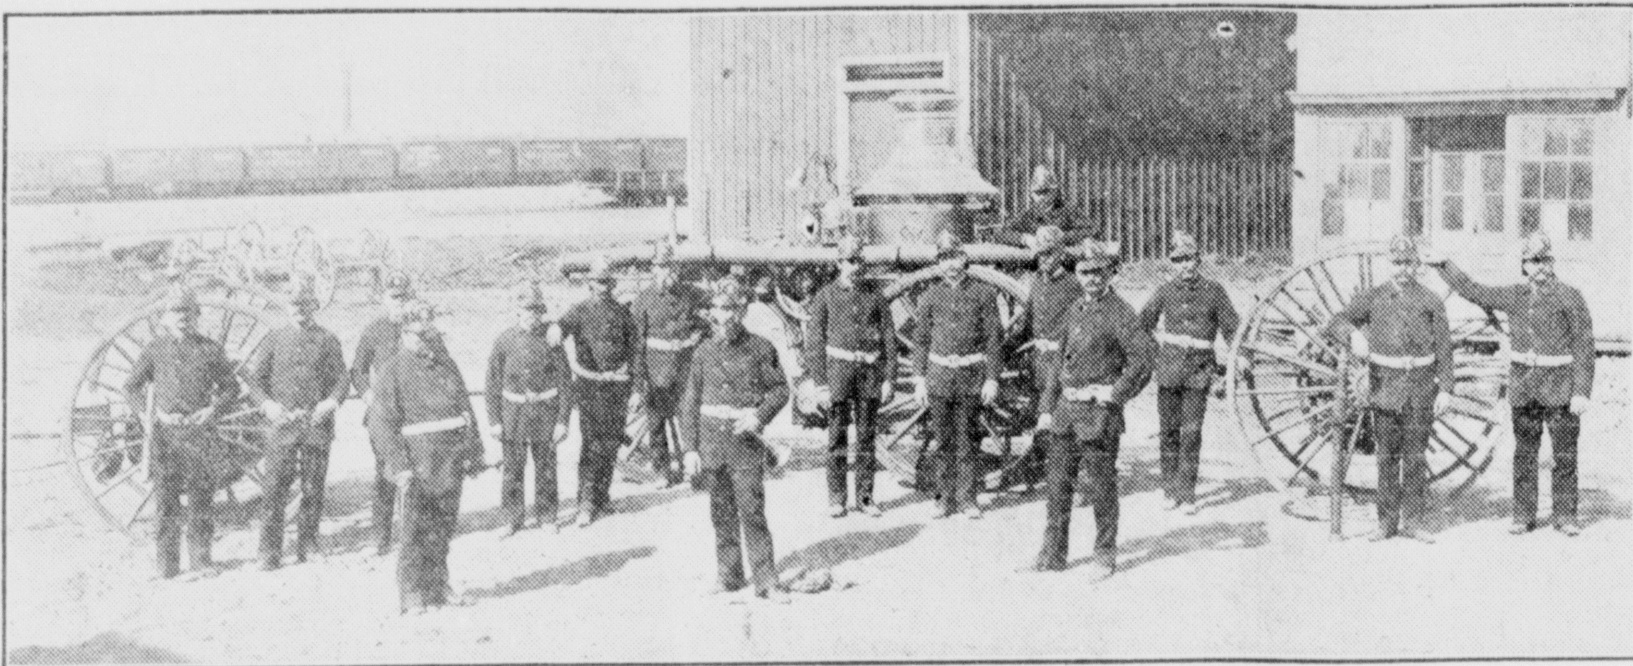

2. The use of wheat for beverages is limited by all nations. In France the alcoholic content of beer is only 1 to 2.2 per cent.

3. Europe universally forbids feeding livestock anything a human can eat. In Holland a farmer must have a license to raise a hog, and the government distributes concentrated feed. The farmer who keeps a horse must feed him home grown oats. Dry horses are on a monthly ration.

4. To lessen waste, all European governments report special campaigns to destroy rats and insects.

Then he took the firemen inside and showed them the smoke was coming from a loose chimney stop on the second floor while a teen-

Maine Farmers Don't Like Potato Dumping

By RICHARD B. COLE
(The Wall Street Journal)

Presque, Isle, Me.—It isn't that Aroostook County farmers aren't grateful for Uncle Sam's bounty; it's just that they think he may overdo it.

Government price support has undoubtedly prevented disaster for potato raisers in this richest spud-growing area in the nation. Without it, instead of getting nearly $3 a barrel, they believe the price would have been beaten down to 50 cents or less by last year's record-shattering crop. And they might still be digging holes to bury the surplus.

Right now, as the new Aroostook potato crop is being planted, farmers see a strong possibility that there may be no spud glut next harvest time. For one thing, 95% of the county's growers have signed up under the 1947 government price support program. This calls for a 15% average reduction from last year in Maine potato acreage. Another factor: A wet spring has slowed planting. If early frost in the fall further limit the growing season, yields could be cut sharply.

Aroostook growers have never had a potato crop failure yet, though, and they feel they may need the government's support price again after this autumn's harvest.

But many Aroostook potato men are against continuance of the support level at as high a rate as last winter's $2.89 a barrel. The biggest reason: The threat that is innate in the typical "down year."

Dumping Rankles the Farmer
The government felt the effects of last year's overproduction which, he agrees, was spurred by the high bounty payments. He is still rankled by the thought of the government dumping 10 million bushels of the 78-million bushel Maine crop—of which 85% came from Aroostook County. He can't stand waste even when he is paid $2.89 a barrel ($1.05 a bushel) for it.

As one big Aroostook farmer puts it: "We had to dump part of our own harvest in bad marketing years in the past. We know that it hurts us. When the government dumps, it hurts everyone; we all have to pay the bill."

Another reason why Aroostook

Rueben Paul, Mr. Pollack has been living at the James Krutina home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry DeRosier and Lt. and Mrs. George Girard attended the funeral of Mrs. DeRosier's uncle, Mr. Charles Van Calligan in Marinette on Friday.

Sunday visitors at the Kenneth Bogar home were Mr. and Mrs. Neville Jones of Perkins and David Symonds of Berrien Springs, Mich.

College students spending their vacations at their homes here are: George LeBrasseur and Jack Hruska from Kalamazoo; Robert Hruska, John and Edroy Zimmerman from Ypsilanti and Rodger Hescott who attends the Salviatorian Seminary at St. Nazianz, Wis.

farmers aren't eager for the continuance of the present rate of government aid is related to their long-term self-interest. They see greater uses for the potato than on the dining table. Already its going in large quantities into starch and alcohol. Great possibilities are held out for its conversion into glucose and other chemical products. And these farmers feel that the less dependent they are on the government the quicker they will develop these markets.

Bank Deposits Up: Mortgages Down

There is the factor, too, that the Aroostook farmer doesn't need government help as he once did. He's pretty well off these days.

Values of Aroostook farms have doubled since the later 1930s—to about $200 per acre. The mortgage debt of the entire county, totaling $28 to $30 million in the middle '30's, is estimated to be down to not more than $7 million. Deposits in the Northern National Bank at Presque Isle have jumped from $3.4 million to $18.7 million during the last six years of high potato prices.

At the same time, farmers down here say that "yarns" in the nation's press have exaggerated the amount of money they made on the 1946 crop. It was in 1943, before costs had jumped, that potato men made a "killing," says Clifford McIntire, a grower and an appraiser for the Federal Land Bank at Springfield, Mass. Profits, which ran from $35 to $50 an acre in the early part of the war, jumped to $100 in 1943, he declares.

Since, says Mr. McIntire, earnings have dropped back until they are now about at the level of the early war period. The reason: Higher labor costs. Hired hands who used to get $24 a week and their living were paid $45 last year. Wages of temporary help at harvest time went up to as much as $10 to $11 a day against a former $6.50.

Farmers agree the offer of high government price support can act as an inducement to overproduce. They don't cite any specific figure, but they generally would accept a lower rate than the present 90% of parity (parity prices are those which theoretically give the farmer 1910-14 buying power).

Against Permanent 90% Support
Take, for example, Harry E. Umphrey, who, if anyone deserves the title, might be called the "potato king" of Aroostook County. He not only farms 400 acres in Washburn, but he has built his Aroostook Potato Growers, Inc., into the largest commercial potato dealers in the business.

Mr. Umphrey holds that "permanent support of potatoes at 90% of parity is neither justifiable nor practicable." To discourage overproduction, he says "the figure should be placed at a level so low that even the most efficient producer stands some loss if he plants too much." Mr. Umphrey is chairman of the potato advisory committee set up under the Hope-Flanagan marketing and research act.

General Manager Harold E. Bryant of the Maine Potato Growers, Inc., a cooperative which handles 20% or more of the state's annual crop, defends government aid to farmers. He says "without price support which is their reconversion aid, many Aroostook farmers would have gone bankrupt last year." But he feels continued 90% of parity payments are too high. He says growers generally "believe prices should not be maintained at a level which keeps inefficient farmers or inefficient acreage in production."

Side-Wheelers Plied Here In Early Days

When the first dwellings in Escanaba were built in 1864, the only contacts the tiny village had with the outside world were through infrequent visitations of the stage coach from Green Bay, mails carried by pony express from that same city where the railroad ended, and visiting ships, freighters and passenger sailboats or steamers.

Among the first passenger boats were privately owned steamers which stopped at the lumber mills on the bay. The two earliest, the Faun and the Dayon, were tiny side-wheel boats without pilot houses.

Soon after, the Hart and Goodrich lines began to make regular trips around the lakes, stopping at the Soo, Mackinac Island, Green Bay, and some of the lower ports. The passenger lines to Green Bay were especially important in the early days, because during the navigation season this was the only connection with trains from Chicago and the greater outside world. According to an early history of the city, these steamers "were handsomely equipped and did a roaring business."

The importance of Lake shipping in the days before the railroads had extended their service through the peninsula can be seen in the fact that at one time as many as 69 boats were lying in the local harbor, either docked or waiting to dock.

The accommodations they offered were partly provided for in the winter by the stage line following sections of the wagon road which skirted the shore line or crossing the ice of the bay. The pony express regularly carried mail from the end of the railroad at Fort Howard. This coach and express service, however, was maintained only until 1872 when through railway lines were established.

The first steamers plying be-about two hours with a glass matt material and a plastics resin.

Unbreakable plastic tablespoons unimpaired by boiling water were shown by the Monsanto Chemical Company. They are made of a polystyrene plastic known as Lustrax.

Charlevoix, Ludington, Green Bay and the various landings on Green Bay, Manistique and Mackinac. In 1892, the steamers Lotus, North Star, and the Allie E. Shipman made daily trips to Maywood, Hunter's Point, Rapid River and other points on Bay de Noquet. They also made close connections with trains of the "Soo Line" at Gladstone.

Most of the excursion boats made two round trips daily, except on Sundays, when a trip was made during the evening also. However, if a week-day evening seemed especially favorable for boating, a crowd could be gathered almost immediately if the steamer blew her whistle three times.

During the summer months steamers from Chicago bound for Mackinac Island stopping here were not infrequent. Although the trip from Chicago directly to the Island was much shorter, the passengers were fond of the scenery of this vicinity and preferred to travel through the bays.

FESTIVAL INDIAN SCENE — Indian life will play a prominent part in the Hiawathaland Saga, which will be presented nightly at the Escanaba athletic field July 3 to 6 as a feature of the Hiawathaland Festival. Here is a typical Indian scene that will be enacted in pantomime during the massed chorus singing of Hiawatha's Wedding Feast, by Coleridge-Taylor.

BABSON SAYS BANKS STRONG

Invest Money At Home,
Noted Economist
Advises

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass.—During my recent western trip I spent most of my time in the six Central States, namely Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma. These comprise the "Magic Circle" of America, "the richest in time of Peace and the safest in time of War."

High Prices Prevail

Every farmer in this area, with normal judgment and willingness to work, is now prosperous. Of course, he is obliged to pay high prices for implements, feed and other things; but he is getting very high prices for his products. This means that the farmer who raises his feed is making extraordinary profits on his livestock.

As an illustration of the price increases of farm products: Lard which sold at 5 cents a pound fifteen years ago, has been up to 35 cents a pound and now sells at 28 cents a pound. Hogs which sold at $2.00 per hundred pounds in the "Thirties," now sell at $25.00 per hundred. I attended an auction where the auctioneer sold 6 weeks old pigs at $15.00 apiece; and he told me that he sold them at 5 cents apiece in 1932. Wheat and corn sell at very high prices now, and may sell at even higher before the slump comes.

What of the Future

Every farmer with whom I talked recognizes that he is enjoying a honeymoon and sooner or later there will be trouble. The only difference of opinion is as to how long it will be before farmers must tighten their belts—that is, how long "parity legislation" will hold.

In the last analysis, the price of farm products is tied up with income of the industrial cities of the East. Most things go up and down together. Human nature is hard to change. Farmers, labor leaders, merchants and manufacturers are now thinking only of temporary profits. They refuse to curtail until forced to do so.

What To Do With the Money

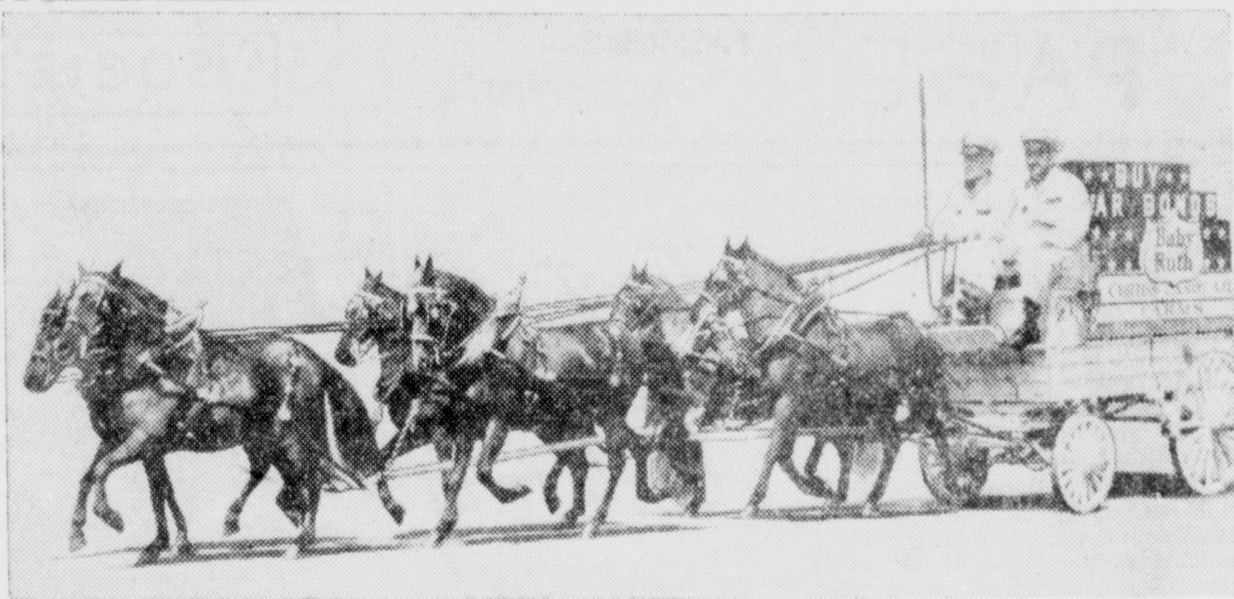

A farmer whom I visited sold a lot of cows and hogs. I asked him: "What will you do with your money?" He replied: "Buy some more livestock next week and start over again!" Thereupon he asked me: "What would you do, Mr. Babson, with the money?" To this I replied: "I would put the money in banks and give my wife one good vacation. She certainly deserves it." To this he replied: "I am afraid the banks might bust while I'm away." This last remark brings me to the subject of this week's column.

Let me assure every reader that the banks are strong today. When the price of hogs drops back to $5.00 per hundred the banks will still be open and doing business. They learned their lesson in the Thirties and will not get caught during the next depression at least. In my humble judgment, money in the bank is safer today than money in hogs.

Banks Are Now O. K.

All accounts up to $5,000 in all National and most other banks are insured. Farmers can easily distribute their money in a number of banks. Do not bother about interest on your deposits. The man who seeks high interest is usually the man who makes the biggest losses. Another suggestion is to buy Government Bonds.

Fortunes are made by selling when prices are high and when everyone is optimistic; then putting the money in banks and waiting a few years until prices are again low and everyone is pessimistic. Those who follow this practice not only roll up wealth for themselves, but also render an important service to the entire

FAMOUS PONIES AT FESTIVAL — Jack Novak, 420 South Eighth street, former Curtiss Candy company salesman in the Upper Peninsula, who has been touring the country with the company's famous six-pony hitch the past several months, will bring the attraction to Escanaba for exhibition during the Hiawatha-land Festival July 3 to 6. The six ponies, harnessed to a miniature express wagon, did wartime duty in war bond drives all over the country. They recently appeared at the Junior Horse Show in Nashville, Tenn.

Stories Of Michigan

One Terrible War

By A. F. KELLEY

The young man brushed the thick, long hair out of his eyes, took a firmer grip on his musket, and peered nervously into the dark night.

"Psst!" someone whispered behind him.

The young man jumped, and turned around. "Whew," he whispered back. "You scared me, Blanchard, do you think they'll attack us?"

Blanchard laughed. "You're young," he said. "When you've lived fifty or sixty more years, you won't take things like this so seriously."

The young man clutched his rifle. "But it's a war—anything may happen! It isn't just the darkness and the loneliness of standing guard here—I've heard stories of what the enemy is going to do. Why, Blanchard—we have only a hundred and fifty men. You know as well as I do, country by helping to level off the booms and busts.

Avoid Speculation

Remember that the best investments continue to be in the state where you made the money which you now have. Don't send your savings to any large city which perhaps may be destroyed during the next war if it comes. Invest money at home in property and businesses about which you know the worst!

that Major Slingerland is keeping that number a close secret so that they won't ambush or scatter us—why, they could annihilate us in an hour!"

The other man leaned his musket against a tree, and prepared a pipe for smoking. "I don't think much of some of the other side's leaders," he mumbled in a voice which he kept purposely light to reassure the boy at his side. "Major Stickney—humpf. Why, Welch, you know what I heard about that man—instead of giving his sons regular names, that man called all his boys by numbers, One, Two, and so forth—now what do you call that?"

"Two Stickney—he's one of the worst," Welch exclaimed. He did not pause to laugh at the story. "He stabbed an officer, and escaped when they brought him in as prisoner—they say he's threatening to kill anybody he sees who's on our side."

Paul Blanchard took a slow, thoughtful draw on his pipe.

"Their seventeen divisions have reported over twelve thousand men ready to volunteer, to carry on this war against our people," young Welch said excitedly. "Why, that makes our little handful here in Michigan look like a gardenplot of weeds. And their government has appropriated over six hundred thousand dollars to win this war against us. You have to admit they're out to fight to the finish!"

"Son," Paul Blanchard said, "I know you're right. I've seen the reports on that, too. But," he leaned over, and chuckled, "I think there's a lot of bluff on both sides too."

"I don't know," Welch stated doubtfully. "This is war, and anything can happen."

"I'll see you a year from now, boy," Paul Blanchard said. "We'll compare notes then, and see what happened."

In the spring of the next year which was 1836, the two men met again. Their weapons were gone—both were peaceful farmers once again.

"How right you were, Blanchard!" young Welch shouted. "The Ohio war is over, though President Jackson had to step in, and Congress itself had to settle the fight." He laughed. "And the only blood shed was when Two Stickney stabbed the officer—and that was only a little knife. But there were plenty of threats and arresting and name-calling."

"Two Stickney—he's one of the worst," Welch exclaimed. He did not pause to laugh at the story.

Phil Rich Gets Sudden Ducking On Fishing Trip

By PHIL RICH

Camp 39, Seabrook Lake, Ontario—We flew in here in 32 minutes Sunday. It's 48 air miles from Basswood Lake, but we had helpful winds. It takes four hours by auto.

Within an hour we had all been in for a short swim in the lake. This part of the program was not planned. Joe Abbott and I borrowed a canoe from Napoleon Sequin—only man at the camp—and before we left the float we fell overboard. Cause: Each blames the other!

After changing our clothes we were just starting out again in our cranky craft when we saw Woody and Al working on the alleged two-man rubber boat. Al proved it was a one-man job. When he got in the front, it sank and he slid out like a turtle off a log. Woody stuck to the ship like a captain. But he only had to sit in four or five inches of water. Woody then took the rubber boat out and roved around in many circles.

Napoleon, who is camp caretaker as the log drive is now on down the Mississagi river, said he'd need a permit to house us. But, when he failed to get headquarters on the camp phone, he put us up in a log house with two double-decker iron beds with pads. He also hustled out a lunch of cheese, crackers, pickles, butter and coffee.

We fished some for pike around the camp but failed to connect. A bunch of men here from Rose City brought in a nine-pound Northern last night. They also got a ten-pound grey and some smaller ones and a good catch of brook trout.

We accused the Rose City boys of coming up here to get away from the "crusade."

On the way north in the Seabee yesterday we saw dozens of beautiful mountain-locked lakes. The Mississagi river is plugged with 97,000 pine logs on their way to Blind river.

The camp we're in is at the end of the road. It contains some 24 buildings and was put up by Frank Lang in 60 days. They can feed about 200 men at one sitting. All buildings are made of large Norway pine logs. It was originally built for McFadden lumber interests. The firm has now changed hands.

Napoleon—a Montreal Frenchman—took me over to see about a black bear. The horse graveyard is only about 200 yards from camp. Three of them died the past winter and were left in the woods. The bear have been having a feast. Two or three have been shot there.

One chap he took over missed a bear at about 20 feet, says Napoleon. "He was big one," he declares. "The man shot three times—right over top of him. The bear run away. Weigh about 600 pounds."

It was necessary to move a little less than down-wind from the carcasses to avoid the banquet which was well nigh overpowering. For an hour, I waited for the bear but nothing showed up. Black flies and mosquitoes were busy dive-bombing. Smoking or fly dope keeps 'em off.

"Tramp" steamers work harder than any other type of ocean-going vessel.

Pre-Fab Town For Research Workers In Australia

Canberra—Prefabricated houses for 600 families will be flown in by air transports to establish a rocket range town for scientists and workmen at the Mount Eba rangehead in South Australia.

An RAAF construction unit will move into the rangehead site immediately to build an aerodrome and hangars. These are expected to be ready for use within three months.

Meanwhile light aircraft already are landing on an air strip at the site and some equipment has been flown in.

Elaborate precautions are being taken to preserve secrecy about the range plans. A high authority has disclosed that none of the regular progress reports to the government are committed to paper. Personal reports are made by Director of General Works, Louis Loder to Minister for Works and Housing Nelson Lemmon to prevent a possibility of leakage from documents.

Because of developments in the design of rocket bombs, it is stated, elaborate launching apparatus will not be necessary. New modifications enable the rockets' backthrusters at the ground level and to develop speed after the take-off.

A complete township with a school and other amenities for 600 families is planned.

Joan Frasher And Mary Groos Picked For Interlochen

Two Escanaba music students, Joan Frasher and Mary Groos, have been selected for membership in the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., for the coming summer. It was announced yesterday by Dr. Joseph Madry, president of the camp. Entrance requirements are entirely on a merit basis.

The National Music Camp has become world famous as one of America's outstanding educational and cultural projects. Its membership includes more than a thousand young musicians and artists chosen from nearly every state and many foreign countries. lege courses in music, art, speech, camp counseling and recreational leadership on the college level. Junior, intermediate and high school divisions of the camp provide appropriate arts activities for children of elementary, junior high and senior high school age. Junior camp activities center around talent-finding excursions into all branches of music, art, drama, radio and dance.

Features of the 20th season will include four symphony orchestras, four symphonic bands, five choruses, radio-drama workshop, modern dance department and many other artistic endeavors. The season's programs will include about 200 public performances and numerous broadcasts over local stations.

Lure Book

Kitch-it-kipl, better known as "the Big Spring," Manistique's No. 1 natural scenic attraction, is given spot billing in the Upper Michigan Lure Book, a few copies of which were distributed in Manistique Tuesday.

The Big Spring is pictured in natural colors on the cover of the Lure Book and the reproduction is almost tri-dimensional in its effectiveness and brilliance of color. The picture is taken from the raft landing and shows the raft at about the center of the spring. The odd craft is loaded down with youngsters who are seemingly unaware of the fact that a picture is being taken and are gazing with rapt attention into the depths of the pool.

Schoolcraft county is also ably presented in the book with a well-written story of its advantages slanted in the interest of the prospective tourist. Pictured among its advantages are tennis courts, golf course, a boating scene and an aerial view of Port Inland. The advantages of Blaney Park are also well featured.

Mrs. Dorothy Shipman, city school librarian, whose annual vacation trips have taken her far afield, is planning one of Central America this year.

She will leave Saturday for New Orleans and from there will go by plane to Yucatan and Guatemala where she will visit the ancient pyramids and Mayan ruins and also, as has been her custom in other tours, study the life of the people of the area.

Last year Mrs. Shipman made an unusual trip up the Snake river in the Oregon-Idaho border region and the year before that visited the Gaspé peninsula in Canada. She also has traveled extensively in Europe.

F. J. Beaudin, of Newberry, pleaded guilty before Judge Herbert W. Runnels in circuit court Monday to a charge of passing a worthless check and Wednesday morning was sentenced to spend a year at hard labor in the state penitentiary at Marquette.

The specific charge against him was passing a worthless check at the Eat Shop in this city. He is wanted for the same offense in other cities of the region, however.

Humans Great To See,
Says Man Trapped For
5 Days In Car Wreck

Oakland, Calif., (AP)—"You don't know how wonderful a human being is—a fellow human, being—when you want one."

These were the words of 26-year-old Ernest Kenneth Steele, released from a five-day nightmare of being trapped beneath his overturned car just 150 feet from a busy highway.

It may cost him his right arm, mangled and gripped in a vice of torture for five long days and nights as he lay pinned beneath his car.

He was rescued late Monday—almost by accident—by linemen stringing wire through Franklin Canyon west of Martinez. It was into this 35-foot gulley that his car had plunged last Wednesday when he went to sleep at the wheel.

He was brought to Permanente hospital Tuesday. A man's thoughts are long under such conditions—not even the 36 hours on a raft he spent after a Pacific torpedoing compared with it, Steele said in a bedside interview Tuesday—"this was the works."

"I wouldn't go through those five terrible days again for anything in the world. No one will ever know what it meant to me to have help come."

Steele, a navy combat veteran, thought a lot about his wife. With a piece of glass he scratched the message, "Mae, don't forget I love you," on the side of the car. "I yelled, I prayed. I shouted and banged. I cried for my wife. But I never gave up hoping—never."

BY JAY ARRELL

This office has been asked to voice a complaint against the practice, all too often of late, of using Lakeview cemetery as a playground. Several tombstones have been knocked over and broken and a city water main was put out of commission one day last week.

The matter has been investigated by the city police and some of the children are known. The guilty ones are old enough to know better and if the practice continues they are apt to get into trouble and their parents held liable for damages.

One can well imagine how people who have loved ones buried there feel about the matter.

Methodists Plan Rural Conference

New York—Representatives of 9,000,000 Methodists meet July 29-31 at Lincoln, Nebraska, for a "grass roots" view of rural church problems.

"Rural church members today are the city church members of tomorrow," says Dr. Elliott L. Fisher, superintendent of the Methodist Department of Town and Country Work. He calls attention to the fact that vital statistics of American cities indicate that no city of more than 100,000 population has a birth rate high enough to reproduce itself. But he also cites a steady shift of U.S. population from country to city.

"The Lincoln conference has been called by Methodist Council of Bishops with the idea of finding out what the rural churchmen think of their own problems," he says.

Works With Federal Council
Concern for rural church is nothing new for Methodists as the existence of Dr. Fisher's department shows. He cooperates closely with the Committee on Town and Country constituted jointly by the Home Missions Council of North America, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and the International Council of Religious Education representing 25 denominations. This committee has been operating since 1912.

Among developments affecting church work he cites prospective irrigation of 11 million more acres of U.S. land involving important population shifts, the decentralization of industry with consequent development of some urban conditions in rural areas, shifts of population due to deterioration of "farmed out" lands and the mechanization of farms.

Both Fisher and the interdenominational committee with which he cooperates believe that a healthy rural church life is best stimulated by a healthy community life, prosperity for the people and good farm practices which make prosperity possible. Many successful country ministers do their best work for the church when they are working for such things as good roads, better breeds of livestock, more effective use of manure and other fertilizers and improved stock feeding practices, Dr. Fisher suggests.

In preparation for the Nebraska conference eight committees are preparing discussions centering around family life, community affairs, land policy, ministry, cooperation with other denominations, national policies, church programs and a "Christian world view."

The Methodists include in the term "rural" all towns under 10,000 population and all people working with natural resources including miners and fishermen.

"The Methodist Church is 76 percent rural," Dr. Fisher says.

Giants On Hitting Rampage Against Bucs But Hank Stays With Them

TWENTY SOLID BLOWS—With fellows like Johnny Mize and Buddy Kerr showing the way, the hitting fever is getting contagious among the New York Giants, who yesterday blasted out 20 solid safeties to turn back Pittsburgh's Pirates, 12-5. All this, despite the commendable work of one Henry Greenberg, Pirate stand-up, who rapped two homers and a third safety in four times at bat. Above, the free-swinging Giants show you how they do it. Kerr, Sid Gordon and Willard Marshall each got three hits in five trips to the plate. Mize and Rigney each got two for five, and serious-looking Walker Cooper, who is credited to a great degree for the Giant revival, collected a brace of hits. It was a batting percentage fattening bee for all except one Giant hurler, Gearhart, who was the only Giant to get less than two hits against the Bucs.

The Sports Parade

BY JIM WARD

It was already in the cards that the Bark River-Perronville Cloverland Baseball League clash in Bark River next Sunday would be the game of the year as far as fans and players of Escanaba's neighbor community were concerned.

But Perronville's surprise triumph over the Escanaba

PERRONVILLE TRIMS BEARS

Escanabans Licked On First Twilight Game, 7-2

It was a bad night for the Escanaba Bears last evening in their first twilight game of the summer. The Bears dropped a 7 to 2 decision to Perronville of the Cloverland league.

Ben Johnson, who has always proved troublesome to the Bears, got off to a shaky start when the Bears tagged him for three hits and one run in the first inning. Thereafter, however, Johnson gave up only one hit.

Lefty Jim Fitzpatrick hurled six innings for the Bears and although he did not have his usual stuff, he kept his team in the thick of the fight until the sixth. George Shomin saved a serious threat in the fifth by throwing two runners out at the plate from right field.

Shaky fielding also contributed to the Bears' downfall.

R. Gauthier of Perronville socked a round tripper in the seventh inning off Shomin, who pitched the last frame for the Bears.

GIANTS GET 20 HITS OFF BUCS

All Except One Collect At Least 2 Safeties New York By 12-5

Pittsburgh, June 18 (AP)—The slugging New York Giants handed the fading Pittsburgh Pirates another shelling today, wallop—four four Buc hurlers for 20 hits to score a 12-5 victory.

Behind the big barrage, Yankee Larry Ransom went the route for the New Yorkers although he was clipped for two homers by Hank Greenberg and one by Ralph Kiner which accounted for all Pittsburgh runs.

Greenberg, in addition to his 10th and 11th four-baggers of the year, collected a single and drove in four tallies. Kiner's homer was his 13th of the campaign.

Every man in the New York lineup got at least two safeties with the exception of Lloyd Gearhart who rapped out his lone hit in the ninth inning. Willard Marshall, Sid Gordon and Buddy Kerr fattened their averages with three blows apiece.

The big hit, however, was Walker Cooper's eighth homer of the season which came with two on in the fourth frame and climaxed a six-run Giants uprising.

When Fritz Ostermuller was blasted from the mound in the fourth it marked the 19th consecutive contest in which a Pittsburgh hurler failed to go the distance. Ostermuller was charged with his third loss against five triumphs. Jansen's six-hit triumph gave him a similar record.

The battery for Sunday, Manager Simmons announces, will find Bernard Klie-man on the mound and Leo Knauf behind the plate. Klie-man recently moved to the pitching box from the outfield and will display his fast ball before Perronville. He has averaged 10 strikeouts per game to date this season.

In Catcher Knauf, the Bark Riverites have a sparkplug whose pep and fire is contagious.

Handling utility roles and possessing the ability to come through when the chips are down are such players as Art Fournier and James Anderson in the outfield and Philip Norman in the infield, another hard-working team man.

John Pratt understudies Klie-man on the mound and is showing considerable promise.

Either Ben Johnson, who subdued the Escanaba Bears last night, or Clarence Bartoszek will be chunking them across the plate for Perronville, with Steve Shiverski on the receiving end.

The stage for the Bark River-Perronville clash was set when last Sunday the former overwhelmed Powers, 18-8, and the latter blanked Wilson, 8-0. They both won the previous Sunday, also, Bark River downing Wallace, 16-13, and Perronville stopping a fast Hermansville club, 11-7.

CUFF NOTES: We know now how Peonle's Bar beat VFW, 3-2, the latter's first loss.

A fellow by the name of Ernie Derouin had something to do with it. Ernie has hurled People's to three triumphs without a loss and is batting .428. . . Leonard Cartwright was around, too. . . He's batting .437. . . Peanuts St. Thomas is clipping along at a .333 pace.

Two new entries in the Hi-wathaland Festival Open Tennis tournament are Bill McCarthy and Jack Reynolds, both of Escanaba, who will compete in both singles and doubles. . . George LaBrasseau, the all-around athlete from Nahma who has added football to his repertoire at Western Michigan College of Education in Kalamazoo, is now pitching for Nahma in the Bay de Noc Baseball loop.

Passau Returns To Cubs' Roster

Chicago, June 18 (AP)—Pennant stock of the Chicago Cubs rose a few points today when Claude Passau, veteran pitcher, joined the team for the first time this season after submitting to a back operation last February.

The 38-year-old pitcher has not yet been officially returned to the active list. However, it probably is only a matter of a week or two before his name once again will be in a box score. He had worked out with Mobile for a week and today hurled 20 minutes of batting practice for the Cubs.

"I might be able to pitch a few relief innings in a week, but it will take me longer than that before I could do any starting, said Passau. "I'm still about 15 pounds under weight and I'll have to do some running to regain my wind."

Doser's 67 Takes Early Lead In PGA; Demaret, Harmon 1 Stroke Back

BY FRITZ HOWELL

Detroit, June 18 (AP)—Darkhorse and dark-haired Clarence Doser, stocky, 38-year-old veteran of golf's fairways gave Plum Hollow's tricky course a good handling today with a notable five-under par.

67 to lead 141 starters through the first half of the two-day qualifier for the 29th P. G. A. championship.

Doser, a pro since he was 15 years old and whose 170 pounds is distributed over a five-foot-six-inch frame, collected a fine assortment of six birdies on his par-breaking round. Only once did he slip over par.

Two years ago at Dayton, the Hartsdale, N. Y., veteran made his only previous bid for golfing fame as he turned in surprise victories over Tony Penna, Ky Laffoon and "Jug" McSpaden before losing 7 and 6 to Sam Byrd.

Harmon tuned up for his fine feat by appearing as an impromptu singing guest star at a local night club last evening, while Demaret sang (by transcription) on Bing Crosby's program tonight.

The hot-shot pro field put on a show for the 6,300 spectators, largest opening day attendance in the event's history, as almost two score of the field matched or bettered par.

Locke Shoots 70 With another 18-hole round to play tomorrow, indications were that a score of 149 would be needed to get into the man-to-man match play which runs from Friday through next Tuesday.

Sixty-four get into the match play and 76 had scores of 75 or better today.

Three relatively unknowns were bracketed at 69, just back of the leaders, Jim Milward of Madison, Wis., Dick Shoemaker of Wilkinsburg, Pa., and Sherman Elworthy of San Francisco occupying the "show" spot. Elworthy came in the third-last threesome, and had a pair of deuces on his 35-34-69 card.

Deadlocked at sub-par 70 were Bobby Locke, the South African star who has won four of seven tournaments in this country; Bob Hamilton of Chicago who surprised the world by beating Byron Nelson for the PGA crown in 1944; Jim Ferrier, the reformed Australian now operating out of San Francisco, and Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Defending Champion Ben Hogan, who gets into the match play without qualifying, turned in a par 72, which tied him with about 20 others.

Robinson's fleetness of foot accounted for the Dodgers' final run in the eighth. The Brook first sacker reached first on an error by Don Johnson and then scampered to third on Hermanski's sacrifice and romped home as Johnson heaved wild attempting to catch him at third.

Borowy started for the Cubs and pitched hitless ball for the first four frames. He was charged with the loss, his third against seven wins, while Joe Hatten, who relieved Barney in the sixth, received credit for the win.

Blackwell Pitches No-Hitter Against Boston Braves, 6-0

Cincinnati, June 18 (AP)—Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds scored a double-first tonight, pitching a no-hitter against the Boston Braves in his first night game of the 1947 season.

And, while the lanky sophomore of the Reds lineup held Boston helpless, Babe Young of the Reds pounded two home runs with two men on base each time to make the final score Cincinnati 6, Boston 0.

Blackwell allowed only four walks throughout the game, and only once did a Bostonian get past first. That was in the eighth when, with 18,000 fans roaring their anxiety, he walked Masi and Sisti in succession. But Ryan fled and McCormick, substituting at bat, lined out and the inning was saved.

Meantime, the Reds hammered three Boston pitchers for 12 hits, Young collecting the night's batting honors with homers in the first and eighth, the first one ending the evening for Wright, Boston's starting pitcher.

Blackwell's no-hitter was the first in the National league since Ed Head of Brooklyn did the same thing to the Braves April 23 of last year. It was the first no-hitter of the 1947 season and the first in the big leagues since Bob Feller tallied one against the Yankees April 30, 1946.

This season is Blackwell's second in the army. Last year he appeared in 33 games, winning nine and losing 13.

Young's homers both sailed over the right field wall. The blow in the first inning scoring Baumholtz who had singled and Hatton who had walked. It happened just that way in the eighth also.

VETS HAND PAPER MILL FIRST LOSS

Before the largest crowd to witness the regular doubleheader softball program at Memorial Field this season, the fast VFW nine handed Paper Mills their first defeat this year in a city loop tilt last night. The score was 7-0.

Paul Larson pitched a beautiful game for the Vets, allowing only two hits. Chuck Peltier, VFW rightfielder, smacked a homer in the seventh frame, the only one of the game.

In the opener, Farmers Supply defeated Club 314, 7-6, behind the pitching of Charley Weber, who struck out 11. DeGrand, Club 314 backstopper, hit the only home run of the game.

It was announced last night that an Escanaba Softball association meeting will be held in Club 314 at 7 Friday night. All managers or team representatives will attend this meeting.

bonds, educational rights and subsistence allowances, and any future benefits voted veterans.

Crow said only one committee member voted against the proposal.

Under the bill's terms, any one applying for veterans' benefits would be required to swear he has no Communist affiliations.

Maximum penalty for filing a false statement would be a $2,500 fine and imprisonment.

Subsistence Pay Raised

Crow said the bill stems from a recent visit to the capitol of a few hundred veterans whom he described as Communists.

He said some of these veterans told members of Congress that "in the event of a war between the United States and Russia, they would support Russia."

"So I decided some action was necessary," said Crow. "We have no business paying them anything."

The committee also approved a bill boosting the subsistence allowance for veterans going to college under the G. I. Bill of Rights. The allowance now is $65 monthly for single veterans and $90 for those who are married or have dependents.

Under the new bill, the allowance would remain the same for single veterans, but would be raised to $105 monthly for married veterans, with $20 for the first child and $15 extra for each additional child.

License Agencies Can Not Give Out Auto Sales Lists

Detroit, June 18 (AP)—Attorney General Eugene F. Black came here today to press his demand for a grand jury investigation of an automobile "black market" as one such inquiry was set under way in Flint.

Simultaneously the department of state at Lansing ordered its branch offices and fee agencies to refuse to issue lists of new and used car sales in another maneuver against alleged irregularities.

Machinery for a one-man grand jury was reported being arranged in Detroit on the likelihood the task would be assigned to recorder's court rather than to circuit court.

Circuit Judge Clifford A. Bishop of Genesee county, acting on a state petition charging forgery, perjury and conspiracy, approved a one-man grand jury probe in Flint with himself presiding. First witnesses were to be called for Monday.

Cardinal Conducts Mass For Wagner, Marquette Bishop

Marquette, Mich., June 18 (AP)—The Most Rev. Edward Cardinal Mooney, pontificated at a solemn requiem mass today for the Most Rev. Francis J. Wagner, bishop of the diocese of Marquette, who died last week.

Bishop Wagner was buried in the Bishops' crypt of St. Peter's cathedral, beside the tomb of Frederic Baraga, famed missionary and first Bishop of the Upper Peninsula.

Assisting Cardinal Mooney were the Rev. Dr. James Wagner, brother of Bishop Wagner and procurator of the Catholic University of Washington, who served as deacon, and Fr. John Anderson of Stratford, Conn., sub-deacon.

Other leading Catholic clergymen who attended the services included the Very Rev. N. J. Raymond, of Lake Linden; Fr. Alphonse C. Colnagor, of Perkins; and Fr. Joseph Breitenbeck, secretary to the Cardinal.

Boudreau Top Vote Getter In All-Star

Chicago, June 18 (AP)—Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's manager and shortstop—the player the American league managers omitted from the 1946 All-Star game—today zoomed into the lead as the highest individual vote getter in the 1947 All-Star poll.

The Indiana's shortstop had the backing of 115,916 voters for the same to be played in Chicago's Wrigley Field July 8. The balloting will end at midnight June 26. The total vote has reached 265,796.

Boudreau, enjoying one of the best batting seasons of his career, supplanted Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox outfielder, as the most popular player in the poll.

Edwards And Hegan Spark Indians 9 to 3 Win Over Senators

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Cleveland's Indians won a 9-3 victory tonight to defeat Washington, 9-3. Don Black, who was replaced in the seventh inning, received credit for his fourth victory.

Hank Edwards and Jim Hegan, with three hits each, sparked the Indians' attack. Cleveland clustered two runs in the fourth and three in the seventh off Hudson, then blasted Hefner for four runs in the eighth.

Black, Ed Klieman and Bob Lemon collaborated in restricting the Senators to nine hits.

Donald B. McLouth, 44, Is New Conservation Commission Chairman

Lansing, June 18 (AP)—The Conservation commission today elected Donald B. McLouth of Bloomfield Hills as chairman for the coming year to succeed Harold Titus of Traverse City who served two one-year terms.

McLouth, who is 44, was appointed by former Governor Harry F. Kelly in 1945 and is the youngest man, both in years and service, ever to be elected to the chairmanship.

He is president of the McLouth Steel company and the owner of several thousand acres of hunting and fishing land east of Vanderbilt. He organized and is president of the Otsego ski club.

During his service on the commission, McLouth has taken a particular interest in the parks and recreation functions of the department.

By resolution the commission relieved Director P. J. Hoffmaster of such legislative imposed tasks as membership on the stream control commission by permitting him to delegate the job. A second deputy was also recommended by the commission.

The commission deferred until its August meeting decisions on setting the general deer season and the possibility of opening parts of the lower half of the state to deer hunting, pending further study of the game division.

Seasons and bag limits for pheasant, ruffed grouse, prairie chicken, sharp-tailed grouse and migratory game limits were set over until the same time.

The move was recommended by Game Division Chief H. D. Ruhl who said population and propagation studies will not be completed until after the July meeting. The migratory bird regulations must await publication of federal regulations.

Continued unchanged were the regulations governing hunting of bear, gray and fox squirrel, muskrat, mink, opossum, skunk, badger, cottontail rabbit, snowshoe hare and woodchuck. Year-round closed seasons were continued on black squirrel and Hungarian partridge.

Burward Robson, chief of field administration, revealed plans for the formation of a corps of conservation "detectives." The plainclothes men would gather evidence of conservation law violations and present it to a uniformed officer who would make the arrest.

Commissioners cautioned Robson to be restrained in use of the corps and to avoid "Gestapo" tactics.

Fire Sweeps Town Of Levering, Mich.: Loss Over $25,000

Levering, Mich., June 18 (AP)—Fire swept through the business district of this Emmet county village today, destroying two stores, the post office and a nearby private home and damaging two other business establishments and another house.

Local volunteer firemen were reinforced by crews and equipment rushed from Pellston, Cheboygan, Petoskey and Mackinaw City, summoned by Mrs. J. J. Walker, telephone operator in the Walker grocery which was damaged by flames.

The blaze levelled the Munger store, where it was discovered, the post office, a drug store and the home of Lyle Chapin. Mail and post office records and a few furnishings from the Chapin home were saved.

Total damage was estimated at $25,000.

Negro, 19, Rescued From Lurching Mob, Gets 20-Year Term

Pheonix City, Ala., June 18 (AP)—Jimmy Harris, 19-year-old Negro who was rescued from a mob at nearby Hartsboro a week ago, was given a 20-year prison sentence today on a charge of assault to ravish in connection with an alleged attempt to rape a white woman, Harris pleaded guilty.

Harris was seized by a mob of "about 25" white persons after a 33-year-old housewife reported he entered her home and attempted to rape her.

SAVINGS IN PANTS

Richmond, Ind., June 18 (AP)—Firemen jerked the blazing trousers from 87-year-old John Wadsworth today and rushed him to a hospital for treatment of minor burns.

Wadsworth pleaded with the firemen to recover his trousers and look in one of his pockets. They found $1,234, Wadsworth's life savings.

SONG WRITER DIES

Honolulu, June 18 (AP)—William C. Achi, Jr., 58, who wrote the songs "Sons of Stanford Red," "Sons of Eli" and "Fight Men of Michigan," while attending Stanford, Yale and Michigan universities, died last night. Achi, a former circuit court judge, lived at Lihue, Kauai.

Bert Childers was saying, it's funny how so many of our wartime habits stick with us.

Bert likes plenty of butter on his bread, but even now he can't get over spreading it like it was scarce as hen's teeth. And as a war-worker, Bert used to stick to a temperate glass of beer on time off; and he still holds fast to beer and moderation.

Same way with Bert's wife. She not only has no trouble saving used fats, and waste paper. She's learned from wartime necessity to save every single thing that might possibly be used again.

From where I sit, it's mighty good that so many of these common-sense habits like thrift and moderation have stayed with us. Because they belong in America—along with tolerance, and mutual respect for one another's rights. They're habits that have helped to make this country strong and neighborly and free.

Automatic Safety Devices Ordered On Fast Railroads

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today ordered railroads to install automatic safety devices on 45,000 miles of track over which trains are run beyond certain speed limits.

The order resulted from an investigation instituted by the ICC into train accidents and their relation to scheduled speed of passenger and freight trains.

The commission said the devices should be installed on track-ages where freight trains are operated at 50 miles an hour or more or passenger trains at speeds of 60 miles an hour or more.

The order provides for the installation of automatic train stop or train control or automatic cab signals on 27,156 miles of track and the installation of manual or automatic block systems on 18,586 miles of track.

Shrine Band Will Play At Houghton

Copper Country residents will have an opportunity Saturday to see the famed Shrine band and patrol in action when the Ahmed Temple group makes a pilgrimage to Houghton to honor its potentate, Addison D. Aldrich.

The band, patrol, chanters and divan (officers) will leave Marquette by bus at 8 a. m. Saturday and before nightfall will have appeared in five communities in the Copper Country.

At noon, the group—composed of the fun-loving members of Upper Peninsula Masonry—will have lunch at the Venice Cafe in Hancock.

Beginning at 2 p. m., appearances will be made in Calumet, Laurium, Lake Linden and Hancock, in that order. The Calumet program will include a street drill, but a parade will be conducted in the other cities.

Aldrich will be master of ceremonies at a banquet to be served in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church in Houghton at 6:30 p. m.

A night drill will be conducted, starting at 8, in the James R. Dee Stadium (formerly the Amphidrome), after which a dance will be held for all Masons and their friends. Music will be furnished by the Michigan Tech orchestra.

Advice Conflicting

At the White House, Ayers told reporters that some 10,000 letters a day are still coming in from individuals, groups and organizations. He said that through Monday there were 157,000 to 158,000 letters, more than 500,000 cards and 25,000 telegrams.

Beyond saying there is "a heavy majority favoring a veto," Ayers did not estimate the percentages.

Labor union leaders, through newspaper advertisements and other mediums, have been urging a veto and calling on all working people to ask Mr. Truman to reject the measure.

These advertisements strike most heavily at the bill's provisions against the closed shop and permitting government injunctions to stall "national emergency" strikes.

Mr. Truman is reported to be getting conflicting advice from his advisers as to whether the injunction clause would be workable in the event of a soft coal mine strike this summer.

Meanwhile, about 2,000 union members from the Washington area and another 1,000 who arrived in motorcades from as far away as Los Angeles, gathered to protest the bill.
